Paris "Bluebeard" Is Condemned to Death; Appeal May Be Filed

Marcel Petiot Is Found Guilty Of Murdering 27

Physician, after Hearing Verdict, Shouts "I Must Be Avenged"

PARIS, April 4 (AP)—Dr. Marcel Petiot, "The Monster of the Rue La Sueur" who was charged with killing twenty-seven persons, was found guilty of murder tonight and condemned to death.

Already a legendary figure in France, the little 55-year-old physician rose as he heard the verdict read in the crowded Palais de Justice, turned to his brother, Maurice, and shouted:

"I must be avenged."

Guards led him from the courtroom. Then lawyers representing families of the persons he was accused of having slain flocked to the judges' bench to present claims for damages.

In a tired voice, Presiding Magistrate Marcel Lester told them the court would deliberate on those matters at a later date.

Most of Victims Were Jews

Petiot—referred to by French newspapers as the "Bluebeard of Paris" was found guilty by twelve jurors and three judges who deliberated two and a half hours. He was charged with killing the twenty-seven persons, most of them Jews, in the operation of an alleged fake ring for smuggling refugees out of Nazi-occupied France. The defendant claimed those slain were "gestapo decoys" done away with by his underground organization.

During the summation, Prosecutor Pierre Dupin described Petiot as "the Monster of the Rue Le Sueur" and demanded that the doctor "be sent to join his victims."

In a pre-trial interrogation Petiot calmly claimed he had killed or help kill sixty-three persons but said these persons were collaborators. The proscution only identified twenty seven.

Both the prosecution and defense piled sensation on sensation at the trial. Even before the proceeding began March 18 a prison warden quoted Petiot as declaring that he would demand a mental examination of any magistrate who ordered one for him. Petiot also claimed that he had invented a "secret weapon—not good for war but for resistance—which was silent and had a range of thirty yards."

Three Days To Appeal

The prosecution introduced evidence of the discovery of a charnel house of charred bones and dismembered bodies at twenty-one Rue La Sueur. Petiot, the prosecution charged, disposed of the bodies in a white-hot furnace, in a lime pit, or by dismembering them by expert amputation and distributing the packaged remains in the Seine river on in the Bois de Boulogne park.

At the height of the trial, Prosecutor Dupin conceded that three of the twenty-seven slayings charged against Petiot were of gestapo agents.

Magistrate Leser read the verdict to the courtroom and told the defendant he had three days to appeal. Later the bespectacled doctor told a reported he was "pinning great hopes on a reversal of the decision."

Defense Attorney Rene Floriot said "certain indiscreet statements of several of the jurors" might be sufficient ground on which to base an appeal.

Pope Pius Asks Nations To Unite Against Famine

Pontiff Suggests Limited Rationing "in Better Stocked Countries"

VATICAN CITY, April 4. (AP)—Pope Pius XII called upon nations today to unite in feeding the famished lest hunger threaten the "sorely needed peace," and suggested limited rationing "in the better stocked countries" as one means of battling starvation.

Declaring in a world broadcast that one-fourth of the world's population faces "the sinister menace of hunger," the Pope urged the importing of food to Europe until the next harvest, distribution of existing stocks, avoidance of all waste, and use of all possible means of transportation and food distribution.

Estimating that the food situation will be difficult for at least the next sixteen months, he called especially upon the rich granaries of Argentina, Brazil and other Latin American countries for aid.

The pontiff, who conferred recently with former President Herbert Hoover during the latter's fact-finding tour of Europe, said that "in this great world offensive against famine the United States has generously taken the lead." He praised Canada and Great Britain also for their efforts.

He appealed to the "starving masses" to remain calm, and bitterly assailed operators of the black market and hoarders for "hatefully exploiting the misery of others."

In regard to rationing, the Pope said:

"It is certain that a small, scarcely noticeable rationing in the better-supplied countries would result in such saving of food as would afford other peoples, harder hit by famine, a marked relief in their more urgent needs.

"For that reason we look trustfully to the states of Latin America."

Escaped Slayer Eludes FBI; $300 Reward Is Posted

Manhunt for Earl McFarland Spreads from Ohio to Virginia

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The manhunt for Earl McFarland, convicted rape-killer who fled the District of Columbia death house yesterday morning, spread today from Northern Ohio to Southern Virginia.

Men resembling the 24-year-old ex-marine were reported seen last night in both Cleveland and Richmond.

Washington police, offering a $300 reward for information resulting in McFarland's recapture, expressed belief he had left the vicinity where his partner in flight, Joseph D. Medley, was re-taken eight hours after the sensational break.

FBI agents in Cleveland hunted McFarland in Northern Ohio after DeWitt Whittaker, 20, informed police he believed a hitch-hiker he let out in a Cleveland suburb last night to be the fugitive. Whittaker, who picked up the hatless and coatless rider in Jamestown, N. Y., said he noticed a close resemblance between his passenger and McFarland later when he saw a newspaper picture of the condemned slayer of 18-year old Dorothy Berrum, government worker.

In Richmond, a policeman reported that a man answering McFarland's description fled when the officer started to question him.

Medley was quoted today in a story copyrighted by the Washington Times-Herald as saying he and McFarland planned the escape on impulse after one of the two guards with whom they were playing cards complained of illness.

Medley, sentenced to be electrocuted for the fatal shooting of red-haired Mrs. Nancy Boyer after a card party in her swank apartment here a year ago, was found hiding in a sewer pipe in the northeast section of Washington, where the jail is located.

The story quoted Medley as saying he nudged McFarland after Guard Oscar C. Sanderlin said he was ill and lay down on the bunk in Medley's cell. They leaped on the second guard, Hubert C. Davis, when he dozed, Medley said, and then bound and gagged both men.

Medley said the two cut their way through a ceiling ventilator with a can opener.

The guards were charged last night by the FBI with negligence in permitting the escape and were released under $1,000 bail after arraignment before a United States commissioner.

Verbal Battle between "Mrs. B." And Baldwin Enters Third Round

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP) — The battle between Mrs. Marie Bauernschmidt, constant and caustic critic of political leaders, and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin (D-Md) over the congressman's "absenteeism" record in the House and went into the third round today.

Mrs. Bauernschmidt, or "Mrs. B." as she is known in Baltimore, opened the engagement early this week with a charge that Baldwin had failed to vote on many bills in Congress and had been absent twice as frequently as he had been present during the horse-racing season in Maryland.

Baldwin, an aspirant for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said in a detailed answer to Mrs. Bauernschmidt that her charges read "very much like an echo" of statements made by Rep. D'Alesandro (D-Md).

Saying he deemed D'Alesandro's attack unworthy of comment but felt Mrs. Bauernschmidt deserved a reply because of "her standing in the community," Baldwin termed her accusations "untrue, misleading and absurd."

Today, Mrs. Bauernschmidt denied any link with D'Alesandro and asked Baldwin to furnish her with a copy of his record for voting and attendance as kept by the clerk of the House of Representatives and made available to congressmen.

In Washington, Baldwin said he "would be glad to provide Mrs. Bauernschmidt with a copy of my record, as requested, and also would be glad to discuss it with her at any time or any place she might wish."

He added that it was now obvious that Mrs. Bauernschmidt did not have the official record when she made the charges and "hence the attack was obviously unfair to me. And, since she implies by her own words that she did not have the official record, I might ask where she got her information."

In her statement today, Mrs. Bauernschmidt noted that D'Alesandro had said last night that an official printed copy of voting and attendance was available to congressmen. "I understand," she said, "that this record is not available to the public."

She agreed "to make this record public because I think the public is entitled to know from official sources just how often Mr. Baldwin attended Congress, how often he was absent, on what bills he voted, and on what bills his record shows he voted."

Senate Retains Farm Amendment To Wage Measure

Administration Loses; House Votes Pay Hike for U. S. Employes

WASHINGTON, April 4. (AP)—Three weeks of administration maneuvering to get a minimum wage boost through the Senate without a rider raising farm prices ended in failure tonight.

In the decisive vote, farm state senators mustered a 46 to 38 count to retain the amendment, which President Truman had declared would necessitate a veto of the measure. It requires that the "parity" formula on prices of farm products be revised to figure in the cost of farm labor.

Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, called a recess instead of going on to final action on the measure, but all prospect of overturning the farm amendment had vanished.

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla), one of the authors of the original administration measure, commented:

"All that remains (to be done) is its physical interment."

In their efforts to beat the farm amendment, the administration forces had made concessions shrinking their more ambitious original measure down to a simple increase in the present forty-cent statutory minimum wage to sixty cents without any change in coverage.

How Senators Voted

WASHINGTON, April 4. (AP)—Senators from four states voted this way today when the Senate approved 46 to 38 a fresh-price-boosting amendment by Sen. Russell (D-Ga) to the minimum wage bill for a second time:

Democrats for the amendment — Byrd, of Virginia; McKellar and Stewart, of Tennessee, Radcliffe and Tydings, of Maryland.

Republicans against the amendment—Revercomb, of West Virginia.

Raise for U. S. Employes

WASHINGTON, April 4. (AP)—The house today voted a $400 a year wage increase for federal employes but specified that the increases be absorbed by an accompanying reduction in employes by the affected agencies.

Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill), who introduced the proposal, told the House that the only way the increased salaries could be granted without causing inflation was by slashing the number of government workers.

The bill now goes to the Senate, which has voted to grant employes an increase of eleven per cent.

Miners' Strike Causes Tie-ups In Steel Mills

Bargainers for New Soft Coal Contract Make Scant Progress

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Bargainers for a new soft coal contract made scant progress today, and the four-day-old nationwide strike of 400,000 miners caused new tie-ups in steel mills and fuel-carrying railroads.

There was little "discernible" advance in negotiations here between John L. Lewis's AFL-United Mine Workers and the coal operators, the representative of a major producer said. An early settlement of the dispute seemed only remotely possible.

The Solids Fuels Administration said today that major bituminous coal users were considerably better prepared for a long strike this spring than they were a year ago. An eleven-day stoppage occurred last April before a new contract was signed. It was that agreement that Lewis ended last Sunday at midnight, touching off the walkout.

In the face of the statement by Fuels Administrator J. A. Krug, a spokesman for United States Steel estimated that 115,000 tons of production would be lost in the Pittsburgh area in the first week of the strike and that the loss would increase to 125,000 tons weekly.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation announced 5,000 workers have been made idle as operations were curtailed to save fuel. Layoffs of railroad employes because of the strike were reported by eight companies.

Krug reported that steel and rolling mills had stocks of 704,000 tons on March 1, an average of fifty days' supply. The supply of first class railroads on the same date, he said was estimated to be about 11,069,000 tons, estimated to stretch for thirty-two days.

Government Conciliator Paul W. Fuller disclosed that he had blocked a suggestion by some conferees to recess the negotiations until Monday. They will continue tomorrow as scheduled at 9:30 a. m.

Today's meeting was devoted to discussion of safety measures, Fuller said. It was learned from persons in the closed meeting that Lewis agreed to bring in an additional proposal on mine safety at tomorrow's session, to back up his demand that "this slaughter be abated."

Gen. MacArthur Says Nations Must Banish War or U. N. Will Fail

SEEK WAYS OF ENDING COAL STRIKE

Allied Council For Japan Hears General's Plea

MacArthur Bluntly Outlines Group's Functions as Advisory

TOKYO, Friday, April 5 (AP)—A dramatic appeal by Gen. MacArthur for all nations to "abolish war as a sovereign right" today opened the new Allied Council for Japan—a meeting at which Russia promptly poured in proposals.

Soon after MacArthur finished his address, in which he emphasized the council's role was advisory, Russia proposed:

1. Exclusion of the press from all meetings; the plan was shelved in favor of a compromise to admit the press to major meetings.

2. Council members be permitted to see MacArthur's directives seven days prior to issuance.

3. New elections in the event the majority of deputies who win Diet seats prove "unsuitable."

4. Internationalization of the council secretariat.

MacArthur in his speech said the nations must abolish war as a sovereign right or the United Nations would fail.

His speech, opening the first meeting of the new Allied Council for Japan, also bluntly outlined the council's functions as advisory, and specified that he shall remain "sole executive authority" in the occupation of the beaten empire.

The council was established as the result of an agreement of the Big Four foreign ministers at Moscow last December. Its formation had provoked some critical comment in United States congressional and other circles, from those who feared curtailment of MacArthur's authority.

Wounded in World War I

The proposal that all nations renounce war came from a five-star general who twice was wounded in the First World war and who led Pacific forces in World War II from defeat on Bataan to victory under the atomic bomb in Japan.

While pledging full co-operation with the council, MacArthur made it clear at the outset of his speech that its functions "will be advisory and consultative."

"It will not," he declared, "divide the heavy administrative responsibility of the supreme commander as the sole executive authority for the Allied powers in Japan."

MacArthur also held it "advisable" that all the council sessions be open to the press and public, as the first one was. It is to meet bi-weekly.

"Through such a practice of pure democracy in the discharge of its responsibilities," he said, "the world will know that the council deliberations led to no secret devices, undertakings or commitments. The suspicion, the distrust, the hatred so often engendered by the veil of secrecy will thus be avoided."

Step in "Evolution of Mankind"

MacArthur's proposals for universal renunciation of the right to make war was delivered as he referred to the proposed new constitution for Japan, which would make such a renunciation. The constitution is to be voted on later this month.

He recalled that "in the evolution of society, it became necessary" for men to yield certain sovereign rights to states, and that in this country states yielded certain rights to the federal union.

The proposal in the Japanese constitution he termed "one further step in the evolution of mankind," if it be adopted also by other countries.

"Whether the world is yet ready for so forward a step in the relations between nations," he continued, "or whether another and totally destructive war—a war involving almost mass extermination—must first be waged, is the great issue which now confronts all peoples."

In any case, MacArthur "commended" the renunciation of war proposed by Japan to "the thoughtful consideration of all of the peoples of the world."

Pepper Says U. S., Britain "Gang Up" on Russia

Hatch Hotly Disputes Contention; Byrnes Is Criticized

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) shouted to the Senate today that the United States has "become a guarantor of British imperialism" and that the two nations are "ganging up on Russia."

An angry rejoinder came immediately from Sen. Hatch (D-NM) who denied that the United States is ganging up on anybody and deplored the fact "that a senator of the United States will stand here on the floor and make such a statement."

Pepper delivered a thorough-going indictment of what he described as the "sanctimonious pretense of the British that they are for freedom for everyone in the world." He said the freedom the British offer is pretty well limited to Englishmen.

In the couse of an hour's debate, Pepper:

1. Criticized Secretary of State Byrnes as not having interfered in British use of lend-lease equipment to fight Indonesian rebels.

2. Asserted that if Byrnes means it when he says he does not want maintenance of what Pepper called "the rotten status quo," the secretary had better change his policy "or his actions will belie his words."

3. Upheld Russia's right to make bilateral agreements with such contiguous countries as Poland, Bulgaria and Romania, and at the same time criticized similar agreements by Britain with Trans-Jordan and Iraq.

4. Declared that all the United Nations Organization "is doing now is preserving the status quo," with other members keeping Russia "in the hole" when the Soviet makes demands.

Pepper took the floor after Chairman Connally (D-Tex), of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, had expressed belief that a Russian agreement with Iran for withdrawal of Soviet troops had strengthened the United Nations Security Council as a peace preserving agency.

Pepper said that while this is true, he feels that some other things are going on that ought to have attention.

He protested that a recent British agreement with Trans-Jordan, formerly a part of mandated Palestine, permitted British troops to remain anywhere in that country.

Senate Banking Group Approves Housing Program

12,500,000 New Dwelling Units in Next Ten Years Is Goal

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Senate Banking committee unanimously approved today a long-range housing program intended to get 12,500,000 new dwelling units constructed during the next ten years.

It is tailored to the theory that private enterprise will build most of them if given easier government loans and mortgage guarantees. To that end, the Federal Housing Administration's financing would be extended in present fields and broadened to reach new ones.

One provision would open the way for purchase of an FHA-financed low-cost home with a five per cent down payment and thirty years to pay off the mortgage.

The omnibus measure provides, too, for continued federal aid for public low-rent housing developments, a farm home construction program, and federal aid to cities desiring to redevelop run-down areas.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) said he hopes to get the bill before the Senate immediately after action on the administration's emergency housing legislation which is due to come up next week.

Only two major points of controversy developed in the committee. One was over a clause, demanded by the CIO and the AFL, requiring that "the wages or fees prevailing in the locality" must be paid on any construction done with aid of government loans.

A 7 to 4 vote removed individual homes from this provision. It was left applicable to public construction and large apartment developments.

A similar vote rejected a proposal to require that builders give a two-year warranty against defects in materials and workmanship.

Find Body of Woman

ROUZERVILLE, Pa., April 4. (AP)—The body of an unidentified woman of about 30, believed by Franklin County District Attorney Leroy S. Maxwell to have been strangled, was found a few feet off highway Route 16 a mile east of here today.

Martin Benshoff, a farmer who lived 100 yards from this wooded section close to the Maryland state line, said he noticed a woman's coat hanging from a tree. Upon investigation, he discovered the body.

Council Accepts Red Pledge, Votes To Shelve Iran's Case

Action Is Taken over Objection of Delegate from Australia

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council, spurred by United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, accepted today Russia's unconditional pledge to withdraw from Iran and voted to defer consideration of the Iranian case until May 6.

The council action was taken over the vigorous objection of Lt. Col. William Roy Hodgson, the Australian delegate, and in the absence of the Russian delegate, who walked out last week in protest against hearing the Iranian case.

The Security council thus hurdled a major obstacle in its development as the world's peace agency. Delegates tonight were frankly optimistic as to the future effectiveness of the council.

Byrnes Presents Resolution

Secretary Byrnes presented the resolution by which further proceedings on Iran's appeal to the United Nations for action against Russia was held up until May 6—and Chairman Quo Tai-Chi voiced the hope that developments before that date might make unnecessary any further consideration of the case.

Byrnes's hand was the first in the air when the vote was taken. Voting with him were eight other delegates—those of Britain, France, Egypt, Brazil, the Netherlands, Mexico, China and Poland. Hodgson sternly and firmly kept his hand on the table. The eleventh vote was accounted for by the Russian absence.

After the vote the Iranian envoy expressed his government's acceptance of the council action. He had nodded his head affirmatively as Byrnes read his resolution.

The council then adjourned until next Tuesday at 3 p. m. E.S.T. During the interval, Chairman Quo observed, the delegates will have an opportunity to study a report of its committee of Experts on Rules of Procedure.

Gromyko Returns to Fold

The Russian delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko, lost little time getting back into the council fold after the Iranian case was completed—at least temporarily. He went to a luncheon given by the chairman for the delegates. It was the first time Gromyko had been with all ten other delegates since he walked from the council chamber at 5:20 p. m. March 27.

(In Tehran, Iran, Leftist Deputy Temourtaj summed up the feeling of diplomats, political observers and government officials in Iran with the comment that the unqualified Soviet promise to evacuate Russian troops from Iran by early May meant that "the pressure is off.")

New Jersey Governor Seizes Nine Plants Of Utility Company

NEWARK, N. J., April 4 (AP)—Gov. Walter E. Edge seized nine Public Service Electric and Gas Company plants in New Jersey tonight and in at least four of the plants the union workers stayed on the job.

E. A. Lydecker, a Public Service vice president, said workers stayed on the job in Glassboro and Camden. State police had the same report for plants in Newark-Harrison and Newark.

The 1,200 workers, members of six independent unions had threatened to walk out at one minute past midnight, but said they would stay on the job if the state took over the plants.

Meade Will Seek Seat in Congress

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—Hugh A. Made, former assistant attorney general, announced today his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second district, with the support of Rep. H. Street Baldwin, the incumbent and now a gubernatorial aspirant.

Baldwin said he was "delighted to have a man of the capabilities and abilities of Mr. Meade to succeed me x x x because I know that the Second district will be exceedingly well represented."

He added that his support of a candidate for the seat he himself holds is "further indication that I am positively remaining in the contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination."

Previously, only one person, Claude A. Hanley, Towson, had filed for the post. He is a Badwin foe.

Files for Senate

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 4 (AP)—Roscoe F. Walter, a Derwood, Montgomery county farmer, filed today his certaificate of candidacy for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate in the June 24 primary election.

Walter, a former lawyer, said he had announced his candidacy for the seat in 1944.

He declared in a statement he saught office to bring before the people his contention that the federal government was in a "state of revolution" directed "toward realizing the Tugwell plan of government."

SOVIET EMBASSY HITS BACK AT INFORMER

OTTAWA, Ont., April 4 (AP)—Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk of the Soviet embassy whose testimony provided the basis for the Canadian inquiry into an alleged Moscow-directed espionage network, was described by that embassy today as a "criminal" who faces prosecution "in case of his return" to Russia.

In a sharp statement, the embassy in its first comment on the spy case protested against "slanderous information" circulated as a result of Gouzenko's testimony before a two-man royal commission probing the alleged espionage operations.

Although directed chiefly at Gouzenko, the statement was stout in defense of some, but not all, of the embassy employes who have been linked with espionage operations by Gouzenko.

The statement said that Gouzenko had stolen money from the embassy. It was issued by Charge D'Affaires Nikolai Belokhvostikov who is in charge of the embassy in the absence of Ambassador George N. Zaroubin.

14 PERSONS ARE HURT IN ERIE TRAIN WRECK

HAMMOND, Ind., April 4 (AP) — At least fourteen persons were injured, one seriously, late today in a collision of the Erie railroad's New York-to-Chicago "Midlander" passenger train and a switch engine in the railroad's Hammond yards.

St. Margaret's hospital, where twelve persons remained for treatment, reported the switch engine's engineer, Frank Hepner, Hammond, was seriously hurt.

The railroad's yardmaster office at Hammond said four coaches, the baggage car and the diner of the passenger train left the rails shortly after the train left the Hammond station, when it collided at 5:16 p. m. (CST) with the backing freight switch engine. The switch engine also was derailed.

Protest Dancing Ban

Slaying on Gangster Movie Set Is Called Climax of "Jinxed" Picture

HOLLYWOOD, April 4. (AP)—A movie dealing with murder and fantasy, which the heroine said had been "jinxed" from the start, ended in a real-life tragedy today with the mysterious death of a studio employe on the film's set.

Two hours after the cast and crew had left a gay party celebrating the film's completion, a studio watchman found Edward W. Gray, 31, a studio set carpenter, dying, his body lying behind a mammoth drop depicting the entrance to hell.

Det. Segt. Stanley W. Johnson said his skull was fractured, his jaw broken and his palate pierced. Gray died at a hospital early today.

No arrests were made but another studio employe was questioned and detectives said all who attended the gay party at the conclusion of filming "Angel on My Shoulder" would be interrogated.

Paul Muni, star of the gangster film, was host. Others attending included Anne Baxter, the leading lady, and supporting players Kurt Kreuger and Joan Blair, officials at the General Service Studio said. However all departed by 10 p. m., almost two hours before the dying man was found, studio sources said.

Miss Baxter said the death climaxed several mishaps during filming of the picture.

"This is fantastic," she said. "More things have happened during this picture than during any I have ever been in before. It also seems as though it were jinxed.

"First Jack Sullivan, assistant director, died of a heart attack. Then Paul (Muni) was sick, Claude Rains was sick and I was sick. Production had to be held up time after time for some reason. It was just one thing after another."

Paris "Bluebeard" Is Condemned to Death; Appeal May Be Filed

Physician, after Hearing Verdict, Shouts "I Must Be Avenged"

PARIS, April 4 (AP)—Dr. Marcel Petiot, "The Monster of the Rue La Sueur" who was charged with killing twenty-seven persons, was found guilty of murder tonight and condemned to death.

Already a legendary figure in France, the little 55-year-old physician rose as he heard the verdict read in the crowded Palais de Justice, turned to his brother, Maurice, and shouted:

"I must be avenged."

Guards led him from the courtroom. Then lawyers representing families of the persons he was accused of having slain flocked to the judges' bench to present claims for damages.

In a tired voice, Presiding Magistrate Marcel Lester told them the court would deliberate on those matters at a later date.

Most of Victims Were Jews

Petiot—referred to by French newspapers as the "Bluebeard of Paris" was found guilty by twelve jurors and three judges who deliberated two and a half hours. He was charged with killing the twenty-seven persons, most of them Jews, in the operation of an alleged fake ring for smuggling refugees out of Nazi-occupied France. The defendant claimed those slain were "gestapo decoys" done away with by his underground organization.

During the summation, Prosecutor Pierre Dupin described Petiot as "the Monster of the Rue Le Sueur" and demanded that the doctor "be sent to join his victims."

In a pre-trial interrogation Petiot calmly claimed he had killed or help kill sixty-three persons but said these persons were collaborators. The prosecution only identified twenty seven.

Both the prosecution and defense piled sensation on sensation at the trial. Even before the proceeding began March 18 a prison warden quoted Petiot as declaring that he would demand a mental examination of any magistrate who ordered one for him. Petiot also claimed that he had invented a "secret weapon—not good for war but for resistance—which was silent and had a range of thirty yards."

Three Days To Appeal

The prosecution introduced evidence of the discovery of a charnel house of charred bones and dismembered bodies at twenty-one Rue La Sueur. Petiot, the prosecution charged, disposed of the bodies in a white-hot furnace, in a lime pit, or by dismembering them by expert amputation and distributing the packaged remains in the Seine river on in the Bois de Boulogne park.

At the height of the trial, Prosecutor Dupin conceded that three of the twenty-seven slayings charged against Petiot were of gestapo agents.

Magistrate Leser read the verdict to the courtroom and told the defendant he had three days to appeal. Later the bespectacled doctor told a reported he was "pinning great hopes on a reversal of the decision."

Defense Attorney Rene Floriot said "certain indiscreet statements of several of the jurors" might be sufficient ground on which to base an appeal.

Pope Pius Asks Nations To Unite Against Famine

Pontiff Suggests Limited Rationing "in Better Stocked Countries"

VATICAN CITY, April 4. (AP)—Pope Pius XII called upon nations today to unite in feeding the famished lest hunger threaten the "sorely needed peace," and suggested limited rationing "in the better stocked countries" as one means of battling starvation.

Declaring in a world broadcast that one-fourth of the world's population faces "the sinister menace of hunger," the Pope urged the importing of food to Europe until the next harvest, distribution of existing stocks, avoidance of all waste, and use of all possible means of transportation and food distribution.

Estimating that the food situation will be difficult for at least the next sixteen months, he called especially upon the rich granaries of Argentina, Brazil and other Latin American countries for aid.

The pontiff, who conferred recently with former President Herbert Hoover during the latter's fact-finding tour of Europe, said that "in this great world offensive against famine the United States has generously taken the lead." He praised Canada and Great Britain also for their efforts.

He appealed to the "starving masses" to remain calm, and bitterly assailed operators of the black market and hoarders for "hatefully exploiting the misery of others."

In regard to rationing, the Pope said:

"It is certain that a small, scarcely noticeable rationing in the better-supplied countries would result in such saving of food as would afford other peoples, harder hit by famine, a marked relief in their more urgent needs.

"For that reason we look trustfully to the states of Latin America."

Escaped Slayer Eludes FBI; $300 Reward Is Posted

Manhunt for Earl McFarland Spreads from Ohio to Virginia

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The manhunt for Earl McFarland, convicted rape-killer who fled the District of Columbia death house yesterday morning, spread today from Northern Ohio to Southern Virginia.

Men resembling the 24-year-old ex-marine were reported seen last night in both Cleveland and Richmond.

Washington police, offering a $300 reward for information resulting in McFarland's recapture, expressed belief he had left the vicinity where his partner in flight, Joseph D. Medley, was re-taken eight hours after the sensational break.

FBI agents in Cleveland hunted McFarland in Northern Ohio after DeWitt Whittaker, 20, informed police he believed a hitch-hiker he let out in a Cleveland suburb last night to be the fugitive. Whittaker, who picked up the hatless and coatless rider in Jamestown, N. Y., said he noticed a close resemblance between his passenger and McFarland later when he saw a newspaper picture of the condemned slayer of 18-year old Dorothy Berrum, government worker.

In Richmond, a policeman reported that a man answering McFarland's description fled when the officer started to question him.

Medley was quoted today in a story copyrighted by the Washington Times-Herald as saying he and McFarland planned the escape on impulse after one of the two guards with whom they were playing cards complained of illness.

Medley, sentenced to be electrocuted for the fatal shooting of red-haired Mrs. Nancy Boyer after a card party in her swank apartment here a year ago, was found hiding in a sewer pipe in the northeast section of Washington, where the jail is located.

The story quoted Medley as saying he nudged McFarland after Guard Oscar C. Sanderlin said he was ill and lay down on the bunk in Medley's cell. They leaped on the second guard, Hubert C. Davis, when he dozed, Medley said, and then bound and gagged both men.

Medley said the two cut their way through a ceiling ventilator with a can opener.

The guards were charged last night by the FBI with negligence in permitting the escape and were released under $1,000 bail after arraignment before a United States commissioner.

Gas Hospitalizes 44

CAMDEN, Ark., April 4. (AP)—Approximately forty-four persons were hospitalized tonight, Night Police Chief T. Clark said, when a freight car loaded with chlorine gas was smashed by a switch engine at a Cullendale paper mill near Camden.

Ban Nylon Exports

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The government today banned further export of nylon hosiery except by permission of the Commerce department's Office of International Trade.

Verbal Battle between "Mrs. B." And Baldwin Enters Third Round

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP) — The battle between Mrs. Marie Bauernschmidt, constant and caustic critic of political leaders, and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin (D-Md) over the Congressman's "absenteeism" record in the House and went into the third round today.

Mrs. Bauernschmidt, or "Mrs. B." as she is known in Baltimore, opened the engagement early this week with a charge that Baldwin had failed to vote on many bills in Congress and had been absent twice as frequently as he had been present during the horse-racing season in Maryland.

Baldwin, an aspirant for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said in a detailed answer to Mrs. Bauernschmidt that her charges read "very much like an echo" of statements made by Rep. D'Alesandro (D-Md).

Saying he deemed D'Alesandro's attack unworthy of comment but felt Mrs. Bauernschmidt deserved a reply because of "her standing in the community," Baldwin termed her accusations "untrue, misleading and absurd."

Today, Mrs. Bauernschmidt denied any link with D'Alesandro and asked Baldwin to furnish her with a copy of his record for voting and attendance as kept by the clerk of the House of Representatives and made available to congressmen.

In Washington, Baldwin said he "would be glad to provide Mrs. Bauernschmidt with a copy of my record, as requested, and also would be glad to discuss it with her at any time or any place she might wish."

He added that it was now obvious that Mrs. Bauernschmidt did not have the official record when she made the charges and "hence the attack was obviously unfair to me. And, since she implies by her own words that she did not have the official record, I might ask where she got her information."

In her statement today, Mrs. Bauernschmidt noted that D'Alesandro had said last night that an official printed copy of voting and attendance was available to congressmen. "I understand," she said, "that this record is not available to the public."

She agreed "to make this record public because I think the public is entitled to know from official sources just how often Mr. Baldwin attended Congress, how often he was absent, on what bills he voted, and on what bills his record shows he voted."

Senate Retains Farm Amendment To Wage Measure

Administration Loses; House Votes Pay Hike for U. S. Employes

WASHINGTON, April 4. (AP)—Three weeks of administration maneuvering to get a minimum wage boost through the Senate without a rider raising farm prices ended in failure tonight.

In the decisive vote, farm state senators mustered a 46 to 38 count to retain the amendment, which President Truman had declared would necessitate a veto of the measure. It requires that the "parity" formula on prices of farm products be revised to figure in the cost of farm labor.

Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, called a recess instead of going on to final action on the measure, but all prospect of overturning the farm amendment had vanished.

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla), one of the authors of the original administration measure, commented:

"All that remains (to be done) is its physical interment."

In their efforts to beat the farm amendment, the administration forces had made concessions shrinking their more ambitious original measure down to a simple increase in the present forty-cent statutory minimum wage to sixty cents without any change in coverage.

How Senators Voted

WASHINGTON, April 4. (AP)—Senators from four states voted this way today when the Senate approved 46 to 38 a fresh-price-boosting amendment by Sen. Russell (D-Ga) to the minimum wage bill for a second time:

Democrats for the amendment — Byrd, of Virginia; McKellar and Stewart, of Tennessee, Radcliffe and Tydings, of Maryland.

Raise for U. S. Employes

WASHINGTON, April 4. (AP)—The house today voted a $400 a year wage increase for federal employes but specified that the increases be absorbed by an accompanying reduction in employes by the affected agencies.

Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill), who introduced the proposal, told the House that the only way the increased salaries could be granted without causing inflation was by slashing the number of government workers.

The bill now goes to the Senate, which has voted to grant employes an increase of eleven per cent.

Bargainers for New Soft Coal Contract Make Scant Progress

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Bargainers for a new soft coal contract made scant progress today, and the four-day-old nationwide strike of 400,000 miners caused new tie-ups in steel mills and fuel-carrying railroads.

There was little "discernible" advance in negotiations here between John L. Lewis's AFL-United Mine Workers and the coal operators, the representative of a major producer said. An early settlement of the dispute seemed only remotely possible.

The Solids Fuels Administration said today that major bituminous coal users were considerably better prepared for a long strike this spring than they were a year ago. An eleven-day stoppage occurred last April before a new contract was signed. It was that agreement that Lewis ended last Sunday at midnight, touching off the walkout.

In the face of the statement by Fuels Administrator J. A. Krug, a spokesman for United States Steel estimated that 115,000 tons of production would be lost in the Pittsburgh area in the first week of the strike and that the loss would increase to 125,000 tons weekly.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation announced 5,000 workers have been made idle as operations were curtailed to save fuel. Layoffs of railroad employes because of the strike were reported by eight companies.

Krug reported that steel and rolling mills had stocks of 704,000 tons on March 1, an average of fifty days' supply. The supply of first class railroads on the same date, he said was estimated to be about 11,069,000 tons, estimated to stretch for thirty-two days.

Government Conciliator Paul W. Fuller disclosed that he had blocked a suggestion by some conferees to recess the negotiations until Monday. They will continue tomorrow as scheduled at 9:30 a. m.

Today's meeting was devoted to discussion of safety measures, Fuller said. It was learned from persons in the closed meeting that Lewis agreed to bring in an additional proposal on mine safety at tomorrow's session, to back up his demand that "this slaughter be abated."

Greece Gets News Premier

ATHENS, April 4. (AP)—Panayotis Poulitsas, 60-year-old career jurist, was sworn in tonight as new premier of Greece, heading a coalition cabinet of Populist and National Bloc leaders who dominated Sunday's election.

Council Accepts Red Pledge, Votes To Shelve Iran's Case

New Jersey Governor Seizes Nine Plants Of Utility Company

NEWARK, N. J., April 4 (AP)—Gov. Walter E. Edge seized nine Public Service Electric and Gas Company plants in New Jersey tonight and in at least four of the plants the union workers stayed on the job.

E. A. Lydecker, a Public Service vice president, said workers stayed on the job in Glassboro and Camden. State police had the same report for plants in Newark-Harrison and Newark.

The 1,200 workers, members of six independent unions had threatened to walk out at one minute past midnight, but said they would stay on the job if the state took over the plants.

Action Is Taken over Objection of Delegate from Australia

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council, spurred by United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, accepted today Russia's unconditional pledge to withdraw from Iran and voted to defer consideration of the Iranian case until May 6.

The council action was taken over the vigorous objection of Lt. Col. William Roy Hodgson, the Australian delegate, and in the absence of the Russian delegate, who walked out last week in protest against hearing the Iranian case.

The Security council thus hurdled a major obstacle in its development as the world's peace agency. Delegates tonight were frankly optimistic as to the future effectiveness of the council.

Byrnes Presents Resolution

Secretary Byrnes presented the resolution by which further proceedings on Iran's appeal to the United Nations for action against Russia was held up until May 6—and Chairman Quo Tai-Chi voiced the hope that developments before that date might make unnecessary any further consideration of the case.

Byrnes's hand was the first in the air when the vote was taken. Voting with him were eight other delegates—those of Britain, France, Egypt, Brazil, the Netherlands, Mexico, China and Poland. Hodgson sternly and firmly kept his hand on the table. The eleventh vote was accounted for by the Russian absence.

After the vote the Iranian envoy expressed his government's acceptance of the council action. He had nodded his head affirmatively as Byrnes read his resolution.

The council then adjourned until next Tuesday at 3 p. m. E.S.T. During the interval, Chairman Quo observed, the delegates will have an opportunity to study a report of its committee of Experts on Rules of Procedure.

Gromyko Returns to Fold

The Russian delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko, lost little time getting back into the council fold after the Iranian case was completed—at least temporarily. He went to a luncheon given by the chairman for the delegates. It was the first time Gromyko had been with all ten other delegates since he walked from the council chamber at 5:20 p. m. March 27.

(In Tehran, Iran, Leftist Deputy Temourtaj summed up the feeling of diplomats, political observers and government officials in Iran with the comment that the unqualified Soviet promise to evacuate Russian troops from Iran by early May meant that "the pressure is off.")

Meade Will Seek Seat in Congress

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—Hugh A. Made, former assistant attorney general, announced today his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second district, with the support of Rep. H. Street Baldwin, the incumbent and now a gubernatorial aspirant.

Baldwin said he was "delighted to have a man of the capabilities and abilities of Mr. Meade to succeed me x x x because I know that the Second district will be exceedingly well represented."

He added that his support of a candidate for the seat he himself holds is "further indication that I am positively remaining in the contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination."

Previously, only one person, Claude A. Hanley, Towson, had filed for the post. He is a Badwin foe.

Files for Senate

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 4 (AP)—Roscoe F. Walter, a Derwood, Montgomery county farmer, filed today his certaificate of candidacy for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate in the June 24 primary election.

Walter, a former lawyer, said he had announced his candidacy for the seat in 1944.

He declared in a statement he saught office to bring before the people his contention that the federal government was in a "state of revolution" directed "toward realizing the Tugwell plan of government."

SOVIET EMBASSY HITS BACK AT INFORMER

OTTAWA, Ont., April 4 (AP)—Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk of the Soviet embassy whose testimony provided the basis for the Canadian inquiry into an alleged Moscow-directed espionage network, was described by that embassy today as a "criminal" who faces prosecution "in case of his return" to Russia.

In a sharp statement, the embassy in its first comment on the spy case protested against "slanderous information" circulated as a result of Gouzenko's testimony before a two-man royal commission probing the alleged espionage operations.

Although directed chiefly at Gouzenko, the statement was stout in defense of some, but not all, of the embassy employes who have been linked with espionage operations by Gouzenko.

The statement said that Gouzenko had stolen money from the embassy. It was issued by Charge D'Affaires Nikolai Belokhvostikov who is in charge of the embassy in the absence of Ambassador George N. Zaroubin.

Gen. MacArthur Says Nations Must Banish War or U. N. Will Fail

SEEK WAYS OF ENDING COAL STRIKE

Pepper Says U. S., Britain "Gang Up" on Russia

Hatch Hotly Disputes Contention; Byrnes Is Criticized

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) shouted to the Senate today that the United States has "become a guarantor of British imperialism" and that the two nations are "ganging up on Russia."

An angry rejoinder came immediately from Sen. Hatch (D-NM) who denied that the United States is ganging up on anybody and deplored the fact "that a senator of the United States will stand here on the floor and make such a statement."

Pepper delivered a thorough-going indictment of what he described as the "sanctimonious pretense of the British that they are for freedom for everyone in the world." He said the freedom the British offer is pretty well limited to Englishmen.

In the couse of an hour's debate, Pepper:

1. Criticized Secretary of State Byrnes as not having interfered in British use of lend-lease equipment to fight Indonesian rebels.

2. Asserted that if Byrnes means it when he says he does not want maintenance of what Pepper called "the rotten status quo," the secretary had better change his policy "or his actions will belie his words."

3. Upheld Russia's right to make bilateral agreements with such contiguous countries as Poland, Bulgaria and Romania, and at the same time criticized similar agreements by Britain with Trans-Jordan and Iraq.

4. Declared that all the United Nations Organization "is doing now is preserving the status quo," with other members keeping Russia "in the hole" when the Soviet makes demands.

Pepper took the floor after Chairman Connally (D-Tex), of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, had expressed belief that a Russian agreement with Iran for withdrawal of Soviet troops had strengthened the United Nations Security Council as a peace preserving agency.

Pepper said that while this is true, he feels that some other things are going on that ought to have attention.

He protested that a recent British agreement with Trans-Jordan, formerly a part of mandated Palestine, permitted British troops to remain anywhere in that country.

14 PERSONS ARE HURT IN ERIE TRAIN WRECK

HAMMOND, Ind., April 4 (AP) — At least fourteen persons were injured, one seriously, late today in a collision of the Erie railroad's New York-to-Chicago "Midlander" passenger train and a switch engine in the railroad's Hammond yards.

St. Margaret's hospital, where twelve persons remained for treatment, reported the switch engine's engineer, Frank Hepner, Hammond, was seriously hurt.

The railroad's yardmaster office at Hammond said four coaches, the baggage car and the diner of the passenger train left the rails shortly after the train left the Hammond station, when it collided at 5:18 p. m. (CST) with the backing freight switch engine. The switch engine also was derailed.

Protest Dancing Ban

Senate Banking Group Approves Housing Program

12,500,000 New Dwelling Units in Next Ten Years Is Goal

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Senate Banking committee unanimously approved today a long-range housing program intended to get 12,500,000 new dwelling units constructed during the next ten years.

It is tailored to the theory that private enterprise will build most of them if given easier government loans and mortgage guarantees. To that end, the Federal Housing Administration's financing would be extended in present fields and broadened to reach new ones.

One provision would open the way for purchase of an FHA-financed low-cost home with a five per cent down payment and thirty years to pay off the mortgage.

The omnibus measure provides, too, for continued federal aid for public low-rent housing developments, a farm home construction program, and federal aid to cities desiring to redevelop run-down areas.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) said he hopes to get the bill before the Senate immediately after action on the administration's emergency housing legislation which is due to come up next week.

Only two major points of controversy developed in the committee. One was over a clause, demanded by the CIO and the AFL, requiring that "the wages or fees prevailing in the locality" must be paid on any construction done with aid of government loans.

A 7 to 4 vote removed individual homes from this provision. It was left applicable to public construction and large apartment developments.

A similar vote rejected a proposal to require that builders give a two-year warranty against defects in materials and workmanship.

Find Body of Woman

ROUZERVILLE, Pa., April 4. (AP)—The body of an unidentified woman of about 30, believed by Franklin County District Attorney Leroy S. Maxwell to have been strangled, was found a few feet off highway Route 16 a mile east of here today.

Martin Benshoff, a farmer who lived 100 yards from this wooded section close to the Maryland state line, said he noticed a woman's coat hanging from a tree. Upon investigation, he discovered the body.

Allied Council For Japan Hears General's Plea

MacArthur Bluntly Outlines Group's Functions as Advisory

TOKYO, Friday, April 5 (AP)—A dramatic appeal by Gen. MacArthur for all nations to "abolish war as a sovereign right" today opened the new Allied Council for Japan—a meeting at which Russia promptly poured in proposals.

Soon after MacArthur finished his address, in which he emphasized the council's role was advisory, Russia proposed:

1. Exclusion of the press from all meetings; the plan was shelved in favor of a compromise to admit the press to major meetings.

2. Council members be permitted to see MacArthur's directives seven days prior to issuance.

3. New elections in the event the majority of deputies who win Diet seats prove "unsuitable."

4. Internationalization of the council secretariat.

MacArthur in his speech said the nations must abolish war as a sovereign right or the United Nations would fail.

His speech, opening the first meeting of the new Allied Council for Japan, also bluntly outlined the council's functions as advisory, and specified that he shall remain "sole executive authority" in the occupation of the beaten empire.

The council was established as the result of an agreement of the Big Four foreign ministers at Moscow last December. Its formation had provoked some critical comment in United States congressional and other circles, from those who feared curtailment of MacArthur's authority.

Wounded in World War I

The proposal that all nations renounce war came from a five-star general who twice was wounded in the First World war and who led Pacific forces in World War II from defeat on Bataan to victory under the atomic bomb in Japan.

While pledging full co-operation with the council, MacArthur made it clear at the outset of his speech that its functions "will be advisory and consultative."

"It will not," he declared, "divide the heavy administrative responsibility of the supreme commander as the sole executive authority for the Allied powers in Japan."

MacArthur also held it "advisable" that all the council sessions be open to the press and public, as the first one was. It is to meet bi-weekly.

"Through such a practice of pure democracy in the discharge of its responsibilities," he said, "the world will know that the council deliberations led to no secret devices, undertakings or commitments. The suspicion, the distrust, the hatred so often engendered by the veil of secrecy will thus be avoided."

Step in "Evolution of Mankind"

MacArthur's proposals for universal renunciation of the right to make war was delivered as he referred to the proposed new constitution for Japan, which would make such a renunciation. The constitution is to be voted on later this month.

He recalled that "in the evolution of society, it became necessary" for men to yield certain sovereign rights to states, and that in this country states yielded certain rights to the federal union.

The proposal in the Japanese constitution he termed "one further step in the evolution of mankind," if it be adopted also by other countries.

"Whether the world is yet ready for so forward a step in the relations between nations," he continued, "or whether another and totally destructive war—a war involving almost mass extermination—must first be waged, is the great issue which now confronts all peoples."

In any case, MacArthur "commended" the renunciation of war proposed by Japan to "the thoughtful consideration of all of the peoples of the world."

Slaying on Gangster Movie Set Is Called Climax of "Jinxed" Picture

HOLLYWOOD, April 4. (AP)—A movie dealing with murder and fantasy, which the heroine said had been "jinxed" from the start, ended in a real-life tragedy today with the mysterious death of a studio employe on the film's set.

Two hours after the cast and crew had left a gay party celebrating the film's completion, a studio watchman found Edward W. Gray, 31, a studio set carpenter, dying, his body lying behind a mammoth drop depicting the entrance to hell.

Det. Segt. Stanley W. Johnson said his skull was fractured, his jaw broken and his palate pierced. Gray died at a hospital early today.

No arrests were made but another studio employe was questioned and detectives said all who attended the gay party at the conclusion of filming "Angel on My Shoulder" would be interrogated.

Paul Muni, star of the gangster film, was host. Others attending included Anne Baxter, the leading lady, and supporting players Kurt Kreuger and Joan Blair, officials at the General Service Studio said. However all departed by 10 p. m., almost two hours before the dying man was found, studio sources said.

Miss Baxter said the death climaxed several mishaps during filming of the picture.

"This is fantastic," she said. "More things have happened during this picture than during any I have ever been in before. It also seems as though it were jinxed.

"First Jack Sullivan, assistant director, died of a heart attack. Then Paul (Muni) was sick, Claude Rains was sick and I was sick. Production had to be held up time after time for some reason. It was just one thing after another."

Two of Eight Badly Injured Persons Are Reported Improved

Mrs. Somie Hiner, 81, 214 Seymour street, who was admitted to Allegany hospital Monday for treatment of injuries suffered when she was struck by a truck on Baltimore street, was reported in a "good" condition last evening. X-rays revealed there were no fractures, attendants said.

Also reported in a good condition was John H. Grady, 24, Long, who was admitted to the hospital last Thursday for treatment of a possible fractured skull and other injuries police said were suffered when the car he was driving crashed on North Mechanic street.

In a fair condition in the same hospital is Mrs. Martha Shugrue, 73, 615 Greene street, who was seriously injured Saturday when she was struck by a car on Greene street.

Thomas Elliott, 21, Bedford road, seriously injured when he was kicked by a horse Tuesday, was reported in a "fair" condition.

Charles B. Cooper, 28, Ellerslie, critically burned in the Henderson avenue explosion of March 22, was still "fair" in Memorial hospital as was Bernard Lewis, 18, Oldtown road, injured Saturday when the motorcycle he was riding struck a guard rail.

Reported "as good as can be expected" were Rawnie Cramer, 7, 19 Cresap street, critically burned Saturday when her clothes caught fire at her home, and David Null, 4, 120 Seymour street, who was badly injured March 19 when he was struck by a car in front of his home.

Two Creditable Things By the Coal Miners

THE SOFT COAL MINERS, who are now idle by reason of the expiration of their union contracts, are to be commended for two things.

One is that they are not picketing their plants or its offices and are taking their vacation, or whatever it may be called, in an orderly and peaceful manner.

The other is that they are wholeheartedly co-operating with the mine owners in keeping the mines in good working condition.

As for picketing, the miners know it is senseless to maintain pickets when there is no indication that the operators are going to try to operate. The owners are not going to try operating the mines until their miners are ready to go back to the job, and the miners know it. So picketing would be utterly useless.

As for pumping, ventilating and otherwise keeping the mines in good working order, the miners know that such preservation of the plants is as much to their interest as it is to the owners. Coal mining is a most hazardous occupation even under the best of conditions, involving both life and health. Accordingly, the welfare of the miners depends upon keeping all hazards to the utmost minimum.

Here is presented a sharp contrast with conditions that have obtained in other industries, where in recent times picket lines were maintained even to the point of unnecessary violence when it was quite apparent that, since all available workers were not on the job, it would have been impossible for any attempt at strike-breaking. In the steel, automotive, electrical and other industries, picketing was maintained not only against the entrance of workers, but also against the entrance of supervisory employes and others charged with maintenance of plants. While the hazards in those industries are nothing comparable to those in the coal mining industry, much depends upon maintaining plants in good working order during a shutdown. It was foolish in the extreme to prevent the entrance to plants of maintenance workers and clerical and managerial employes.

It is to be hoped that in these important respects, the shutdown of the coal mines, however regrettable and however possibly preventable, will serve the useful purpose of presenting an emulative challenge to workers in other industries.

The Surplus War Material Muddle

THE GOVERNMENT ORDER which strictly limits all construction and repair work puts the country under controls which in some respects are as drastic as any which were enforced during the war. What is now in prospect, insofar as building is concerned, and excepting only home for veterans, is a static America.

Whether so extreme a step is necessary to provide the housing facilities which the nation needs may be debatable but, because the course has now been set, it does no good to argue the point. Whether it could have been averted may likewise be open to question, but again discussion is fruitless. All Americans can do now is to reconcile themselves to the fact that they will not be permitted to make even necessary repairs to their homes or, if they are engaged in business, that they will be prohibited from adding to stores, plants and factories.

That this new decree, applying to every citizen, will have a portentous effect on American life cannot be doubted. Millions of householders, thousands of business men and probably thousands of public institutions such as schools and hospitals, after waiting eagerly for the end of the war to carry out long-cherished repair or building plans, are now condemned to remain where they are.

It is true that the way is left open by the government for citizens to seek exemption from the provisions of this harsh regulation, but the authorities indicate clearly that the burden of proof will rest heavily on the man who makes the appeal. Probably it will be easier to sit and suffer than to fight for a concession.

As Americans affected survey the dark prospect ahead of them, they can only hope that the program will do what it is supposed to do—provide the 2,700,000 homes which it is estimated are required by the veterans. When they contemplate what bureaucracy has accomplished with so simple an item as butter, they are forced to the conclusion that it isn't in the cards.

We Even Have an Atomic Bomb Highway Now

WE HAVE HAD the atomic this and the atomic that added to our nomenclature in superabundance since the world-shaking discovery of nuclear fission as a war weapon, and now we have the Atomic Bomb highway.

It is not just a fanciful name but one actually related to the discovery. It connects one important spot where work on the atomic bomb was carried on, this being high up in the Jamez mountains (7,400 feet elevation) in the north central part of New Mexico.

It was no mean engineering feat to construct a road capable of serving this bustling city of 6,000 persons while that community was being built. The existing road had grades up to eighteen percent, sharp hairpin curves, very limited vertical and horizontal sight distances and perpendicular cliffs just a stone's throw away.

Construction of the Atomic Bomb highway was started August 24, 1943, and the first stage of the work was completed on December 2, 1943, at a cost of $346,990. To make a dustless wearing surface it was necessary to wait for spring so that an oil-process surfacing could be placed on it. By July 22, 1944, at an additional cost of $45,005 workmen had finished the construction of the first Atomic Bomb highway. The total cost of that little six-mile stretch, including the preliminary engineering, ran around $65,500 a mile.

The road will be traveled by hundreds of tourists visiting the Bandelier National Monument, as three and a half miles of its length is embraced within the Otowi section thereof, under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service.

Hunting and Fishing Problems Increase

DR. IRA N. GABRIELSON, who resigned recently as director of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the United States Department of the Interior, told a meeting of the North American Wildlife Conference in New York city that one of the major problems faced by conservation agencies is the great increase in recent years of hunting and fishing. In the last fiscal year in the United States there was recorded an increase of 2,000,000 hunting licenses as compared with the year before and an increase of 449,755 fishing licenses as compared with the previous twelve-month period.

Perhaps the high wages paid during the war enabled many more persons to take vacations and indulge in these sports. Or could it be that the shortage of ammunition for civilians and the shortage of fishing equipment led many persons to become interested? Government officials say that when there is a shortage of something, many Americans become vitally interested in those products and their use.

But it is worthy of note that increased hunting and fishing are not the main problems of the conservation agencies. E. Sydney Stephens, chairman of the Missouri Conservation Commission, told the same conference before which Dr. Gabrielson spoke that wildlife's biggest stake is in soil conservation. He said that by taking away the food and cover of game and by silting the streams, erosion has destroyed more game and fish than has all the shooting, trapping, casting, dynamiting and gigging combined.

Lawlessness In the Army

MANY CIVILIANS undoubtedly have the idea that lawlessness is prevalent among American troops overseas. They read about some particularly serious crime and take it for granted that it is just one of a great number. Some remarks by an officer who ought to know should serve to shed a different light on the matter.

The officer is Brig. Gen. Edwin C. McNeil, who commanded the European branch office of the judge advocate general. On his return to this country the other day he said that the crime record of the American army in Europe from July, 1942, until mid-February of this year was exceedingly creditable, with only one-half of one per cent of 4,000,000 men ever becoming before a general court-martial. Not more than 8,000, or .19 of one per cent, finally were lost to the service by dishonorable discharge.

Gen. McNeil said that crime in many instances was a psychological reaction from the steady grind of military duty and the lack of spiritual uplift in a war theater.

Civilians in general know very little of the psychological effect of war upon those who fight it. And those who have jumped at the conclusion that army life is just another term for the disregard of law and order might be exceedingly embarrassed to find that the crime record of their own communities is considerably worse proportionately than that of the army.

Junior is much interested in the pictures of those new mass-production homes in which all the rooms will be circular because that will mean no more standing in the corner for him.

There is a rumored back-to-Russia movement in the Red Army. It would be a grand thing if it should adopt a permanent isolationist policy.

When it comes to creating an international problem, those Iranian oil fields certainly can bring in a gusher.

NAMES

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

What's in a name, anyway? Nothing—unless it is earned: Our name is synonymous with what we are in ourselves. Many a public character has become famous by way of an invented name, but it had to be earned to become known.

I once read that "anyone would know what to have named a pig!" Names are always associated with the qualities or character of its subject. From earliest youth we have heard the phrase that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." It is that important. Insult or attempt to despoil that name in any way whatsoever, and you attack the very heart of its owner.

I am poor at grasping, or holding, to a mere name. Personalities, however, leave something clinging tightly to me. I give my own name to such, until familiarity, and a reaching of the heart, demand that I be specific. Then I handle the name, and it pictures the entire character to me.

The mere name "tree" is known to all, but our love centers about an Elm, Maple, Pine, Birch, or Oak. The beauty and friendliness of these trees tie their names to our memory and to our interest in them. They loan their personality.

It is a fine practice to name cities, streets, and public buildings, especially schools, after noble and useful men and women. Elbert Hubbard had each one of the rooms in his famous Roycroft Inn, at East Aurora, New York, named after a famous person, and on the wall was a portrait of that one, and on the stand beside the bed a book by or about that one. You felt honored and humble in such a room. And happy, as well.

The names of the early Indians in America are scattered all over, as names of towns, rivers, lakes, and a variety of places. These places illustrate history, and inspire a desire for knowledge. All over Canada and the United States are names that were long before famous in mother lands across the sea.

The name of a book often gives to it its greatest sales value. It helps to anchor the mind to its substance. Thoreau called the names of Petrarch, Tell, Wickline, Chaucer—"stout and stirring."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Russia Is Using Wheat To Help Sway French Elections, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 4. — Two weeks ago the Russians announced that they would send more than half a million tons of grain to aid hungry France. Here is the inside story of what happened afterward.

The Russian move naturally did not strike too responsive a cord in United States government circles, because simultaneously UNRRA is being asked to feed starving thousands in Russia, especially White Russia.

Also the fact that France is in the throes of an important election fight can't be ignored. That election, the first in ten years, will decide whether the Communists secure control of France, and the sending of Russian grain to France at this particular time is bound to have a powerful psychological effect.

Despite this obvious political play, however, and despite the fact that UNRRA is helping part of Russia while Russia feeds France, the United States War Shipping Administration sent ten vessels to Odessa on Soviet request to pick up the Russian grain and take it to France.

When these ships arrived at Odessa, however, they found no grain. In fact, at this writing, they were reported still waiting at anchor in Odessa harbor.

What the Russians had done was to ship all the grain to Nikolayev, south of Odessa, where it was loaded on four Russian ships, and is now on its way to France. Naturally, the Soviet-manned ships, even though some are reported to be lend-lease Liberties built in the U. S. A. will receive a tremendous ovation and help to sway the election when they arrive in France.

Watching the United Nations

Most shining delegate at the United Nations conference is able Brazilian Foreign Minister Pedro Veloso. He seldom speaks, but his bronzed, barren pate reflects the light like a halo . . . . Wisest, most experienced diplomat is Mexican Foreign Minister Castillo Najera, veteran of many conferences, former Mexican delegate to the League of Nations. Najera sits eyes closed, as if asleep. He hit the nail on the head when he proclaimed the chief fault of the United Nations is the power of veto. No nation should have it. . . . Chief handicap to staging the UNO meetings at Hunter college, from male delegates' point of view, is the toilette facilities. Hunter is a women's college. . . .

The Soviet government constantly blasts the American "controlled press." Yet Ambassador Gromyko, in justifying Russia's stand in Iran frequently quoted the Associated Press and the United Press. . . . Australian Foreign Minister Herbert Evatt was indirectly responsible for UNO's compromise proposal whereby Russia and Iran were asked to answer questions in writing. Although remaining in Australia, Evatt wired the plan to Australian Delegate Hodgson in New York at the very start of the conference. . . . Evatt was the smaller nation's most brilliant champion at the first UNO meeting in San Francisco.

U. S. Holds Balance

Most graphic illustration of how the United States now sits in the middle between Britain and Russia came at an early meeting of the Security council.

In previous secret meetings of the Big Three, it was known that Roosevelt kept the balance between Stalin and Churchill. But at one public session of the Security council in New York, Lord Cadogan, sitting beside United States Assistant Delegate Ed Stettinius, kept whispering messages which Stettinius passed on to Secretary Byrnes, spurring the latter to be tougher with Russia.

Stettinius, ever anxious to be helpful, passed on the messages, but Byrnes kept his own counsel.

Note—For 100 years there has been intense rivalry between the Russian and the British empires. When the czar built the Trans-Siberian Railroad to Vladivostok to get an outlet on the Pacific, Britain formed her Anglo-Japanese alliance to block the Russians. When the czar pushed down toward Turkey to get an outlet through the Dardanelles, Britain fought the Crimean war on Turkey's side. When the czar wanted an outlet to the sea through the Gulf of Persia, the British negotiated an alliance with Persia (now Iran). And after the last war, Churchill, then British war minister, sent Allied troops into Archangel and Siberia. Chief difference between Stalin and the czar is that Stalin now has a powerful political weapon which appeals to undernourished masses in Western Europe and to a very small minority in the United States.

Consumers Rebel

While OPA's new administrator, Paul Porter, was busy trying to appease farm and cotton belt congressmen the other day, he nearly had his main political prop knocked from under him.

The AFL, CIO and railroad brotherhoods served notice that they were about to withdraw their advisory staffs from the OPA. Since labor is now OPA's staunchest backer, this would have been a death blow.

What most people don't realize is that the AFL, CIO and the railroad brotherhoods maintain a staff of about twenty cost-of-living advisers which works alongside the OPA. They represent the largest block of American consumers.

However, without consulting these consumer representatives, Porter put through some highly important price increases on meat, canned goods, fresh fruit, crude oil and bread.

As a result, the AFL, CIO and brotherhood members got together and decided to recommend to their chiefs that their staffs be withdrawn from the OPA.

But when Jack Thornton, chairman of the CIO Cost of Living committee, reported this to CIO Chief Phil Murray, Murray picked up the phone and called Paul Porter. The latter was flabbergasted, urged that the consumer advisers remain and promised that they would not be by-passed in the future. For the time being they are remainnig.

Note—What labor doesn't altogether realize is that wage increases for unions are bound to result in a higher living cost—for them as well as white collar workers. For instance, Washington, D. C., milk drivers have served a strike notice for April 25. If their increased wage demands are met, the price of milk will go up for everyone in that area. Meanwhile, every wage increase in the city tends to draw labor off the farm, or else increase wages on the farm—which means a higher cost of producing food. It all goes 'round in circles.

Diplomatic Punch

Tip to former Ambassador Carlton Hayes, now head of the American Historical Society: Read "Wind in the Olive Trees," published by Boni and Gaer, for an outstanding account of the history of the Franco dictatorship in Spain. This book tells the history which so great a historian as yourself must have been aware of during your period as ambassador to Madrid. It is written by Abel Plenn, whom your office insisted OWI recall from Spain and whom your office nearly had fired after he returned to Washington. The book will make interesting reading, Mr. Ex-Ambassador.

Secretary of State Byrnes received an informal proposal from the British foreign office last week that all undeveloped oil lands in the Near East be placed under the joint United Nations Commission. Note the word undeveloped. This would leave British present holdings free of UNO control. Byrnes countered with a proposal that all oil in the Middle East—that is British, Russian, and American-owned oil—be placed under the United Nations.

Inside reason why Britain is worried over Indian independence is fear she will lose control of India's valuable thorium deposits. This is the stuff from which atomic energy comes. So long as England controls India, it controls more than a third of the world's metal for making energy. . . . Russian political agents have started to stir up trouble in Iraq against Great Britain.

Two Creditable Things By the Coal Miners

THE SOFT COAL MINERS, who are now idle by reason of the expiration of their union contracts, are to be commended for two things.

One is that they are not picketing their plants or its offices and are taking their vacation, or whatever it may be called, in an orderly and peaceful manner.

The other is that they are wholeheartedly co-operating with the mine owners in keeping the mines in good working condition.

As for picketing, the miners know it is senseless to maintain pickets when there is no indication that the operators are going to try to operate. The owners are not going to try operating the mines until their miners are ready to go back to the job, and the miners know it. So picketing would be utterly useless.

As for pumping, ventilating and otherwise keeping the mines in good working order, the miners know that such preservation of the plants is as much to their interest as it is to the owners. Coal mining is a most hazardous occupation even under the best of conditions, involving both life and health. Accordingly, the welfare of the miners depends upon keeping all hazards to the utmost minimum.

Here is presented a sharp contrast with conditions that have obtained in other industries, where in recent times picket lines were maintained even to the point of unnecessary violence when it was quite apparent that, since all available workers were not on the job, it would have been impossible for any attempt at strike-breaking. In the steel, automotive, electrical and other industries, picketing was maintained not only against the entrance of workers, but also against the entrance of supervisory employes and others charged with maintenance of plants. While the hazards in those industries are nothing comparable to those in the coal mining industry, much depends upon maintaining plants in good working order during a shutdown. It was foolish in the extreme to prevent the entrance to plants of maintenance workers and clerical and managerial employes.

It is to be hoped that in these important respects, the shutdown of the coal mines, however regrettable and however possibly preventable, will serve the useful purpose of presenting an emulative challenge to workers in other industries.

The Surplus War Material Muddle

THE GOVERNMENT ORDER which strictly limits all construction and repair work puts the country under controls which in some respects are as drastic as any which were enforced during the war. What is now in prospect, insofar as building is concerned, and excepting only home for veterans, is a static America.

Whether so extreme a step is necessary to provide the housing facilities which the nation needs may be debatable but, because the course has now been set, it does no good to argue the point. Whether it could have been averted may likewise be open to question, but again discussion is fruitless. All Americans can do now is to reconcile themselves to the fact that they will not be permitted to make even necessary repairs to their homes or, if they are engaged in business, that they will be prohibited from adding to stores, plants and factories.

That this new decree, applying to every citizen, will have a portentous effect on American life cannot be doubted. Millions of householders, thousands of business men and probably thousands of public institutions such as schools and hospitals, after waiting eagerly for the end of the war to carry out long-cherished repair or building plans, are now condemned to remain where they are.

It is true that the way is left open by the government for citizens to seek exemption from the provisions of this harsh regulation, but the authorities indicate clearly that the burden of proof will rest heavily on the man who makes the appeal. Probably it will be easier to sit and suffer than to fight for a concession.

As Americans affected survey the dark prospect ahead of them, they can only hope that the program will do what it is supposed to do—provide the 2,700,000 homes which it is estimated are required by the veterans. When they contemplate what bureaucracy has accomplished with so simple an item as butter, they are forced to the conclusion that it isn't in the cards.

We Even Have an Atomic Bomb Highway Now

WE HAVE HAD the atomic this and the atomic that added to our nomenclature in superabundance since the world-shaking discovery of nuclear fission as a war weapon, and now we have the Atomic Bomb highway.

It is not just a fanciful name but one actually related to the discovery. It connects one important spot where work on the atomic bomb was carried on, this being high up in the Jamez mountains (7,400 feet elevation) in the north central part of New Mexico.

It was no mean engineering feat to construct a road capable of serving this bustling city of 6,000 persons while that community was being built. The existing road had grades up to eighteen percent, sharp hairpin curves, very limited vertical and horizontal sight distances and perpendicular cliffs just a stone's throw away.

Construction of the Atomic Bomb highway was started August 24, 1943, and the first stage of the work was completed on December 2, 1943, at a cost of $346,990. To make a dustless wearing surface it was necessary to wait for spring so that in oil-process surfacing could be placed on it. By July 22, 1944, at an additional cost of $45,005 workmen had finished the construction of the first Atomic Bomb highway. The total cost of that little six-mile stretch, including the preliminary engineering, ran around $65,500 a mile.

The road will be traveled by hundreds of tourists visiting the Bandelier National Monument, as three and a half miles of its length is embraced within the Otowi section thereof, under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service.

Hunting and Fishing Problems Increase

DR. IRA N. GABRIELSON, who resigned recently as director of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the United States Department of the Interior, told a meeting of the North American Wildlife Conference in New York city that one of the major problems faced by conservation agencies is the great increase in recent years of hunting and fishing. In the last fiscal year in the United States there was recorded an increase of 2,000,000 hunting licenses as compared with the year before and an increase of 449,755 fishing licenses as compared with the previous twelve-month period.

Perhaps the high wages paid during the war enabled many more persons to take vacations and indulge in these sports. Or could it be that the shortage of ammunition for civilians and the shortage of fishing equipment led many persons to become interested? Government officials say that when there is a shortage of something, many Americans become vitally interested in those products and their use.

But it is worthy of note that increased hunting and fishing are not the main problems of the conservation agencies. E. Sydney Stephens, chairman of the Missouri Conservation Commission, told the same conference before which Dr. Gabrielson spoke that wildlife's biggest stake is in soil conservation. He said that by taking away the food and cover of game and by silting the streams, erosion has destroyed more game and fish than has all the shooting, trapping, casting, dynamiting and gigging combined.

Lawlessness In the Army

MANY CIVILIANS undoubtedly have the idea that lawlessness is prevalent among American troops overseas. They read about some particularly serious crime and take it for granted that it is just one of a great number. Some remarks by an officer who ought to know should serve to shed a different light on the matter.

The officer is Brig. Gen. Edwin C. McNeil, who commanded the European branch office of the judge advocate general. On his return to this country the other day he said that the crime record of the American army in Europe from July, 1942, until mid-February of this year was exceedingly creditable, with only one-half of one per cent of 4,000,000 men ever becoming before a general court-martial. Not more than 8,000, or .19 of one per cent, finally were lost to the service by dishonorable discharge.

Gen. McNeil said that crime in many instances was a psychological reaction from the steady grind of military duty and the lack of spiritual uplift in a war theater.

Civilians in general know very little of the psychological effect of war upon those who fight it. And those who have jumped at the conclusion that army life is just another term for the disregard of law and order might be exceedingly embarrassed to find that the crime record of their own communities is considerably worse proportionately than that of the army.

Junior is much interested in the pictures of those new mass-production homes in which all the rooms will be circular because that will mean no more standing in the corner for him.

There is a rumored back-to-Russia movement in the Red Army. It would be a grand thing if it should adopt a permanent isolationist policy.

When it comes to creating an international problem, those Iranian oil fields certainly can bring in a gusher.

NAMES

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

What's in a name, anyway? Nothing—unless it is earned: Our name is synonymous with what we are in ourselves. Many a public character has become famous by way of an invented name, but it had to be earned to become known.

I once read that "anyone would know what to have named a pig!" Names are always associated with the qualities or character of its subject. From earliest youth we have heard the phrase that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." It is that important. Insult or attempt to despoil that name in any way whatsoever, and you attack the very heart of its owner.

I am poor at grasping, or holding, to a mere name. Personalities, however, leave something clinging tightly to me. I give my own name to such, until familiarity, and a reaching of the heart, demand that I be specific. Then I handle the name, and it pictures the entire character to me.

The mere name "tree" is known to all, but our love centers about an Elm, Maple, Pine, Birch, or Oak. The beauty and friendliness of these trees tie their names to our memory and to our interest in them. They loan their personality.

It is a fine practice to name cities, streets, and public buildings, especially schools, after noble and useful men and women. Elbert Hubbard had each one of the rooms in his famous Roycroft Inn, at East Aurora, New York, named after a famous person, and on the wall was a portrait of that one, and on the stand beside the bed a book by or about that one. You felt honored and humble in such a room. And happy, as well.

The names of the early Indians in America are scattered all over, as names of towns, rivers, lakes, and a variety of places. These places illustrate history, and inspire a desire for knowledge. All over Canada and the United States are names that were long before famous in mother lands across the sea.

The name of a book often gives to it its greatest sales value. It helps to anchor the mind to its substance. Thoreau called the names of Petrarch, Tell, Wickline, Chaucer—"stout and stirring."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Russia Is Using Wheat To Help Sway French Elections, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 4. — Two weeks ago the Russians announced that they would send more than half a million tons of grain to aid hungry France. Here is the inside story of what happened afterward.

The Russian move naturally did not strike too responsive a cord in United States government circles, because simultaneously UNRRA is being asked to feed starving thousands in Russia, especially White Russia.

Also the fact that France is in the throes of an important election fight can't be ignored. That election, the first in ten years, will decide whether the Communists secure control of France, and the sending of Russian grain to France at this particular time is bound to have a powerful psychological effect.

Despite this obvious political play, however, and despite the fact that UNRRA is helping part of Russia while Russia feeds France, the United States War Shipping Administration sent ten vessels to Odessa on Soviet request to pick up the Russian grain and take it to France.

When these ships arrived at Odessa, however, they found no grain. In fact, at this writing, they were reported still waiting at anchor in Odessa harbor.

What the Russians had done was to ship all the grain to Nikolayev, south of Odessa, where it was loaded on four Russian ships, and is now on its way to France. Naturally, the Soviet-manned ships, even though some are reported to be lend-lease Liberties built in the U. S. A. will receive a tremendous ovation and help to sway the election when they arrive in France.

Watching the United Nations

Most shining delegate at the United Nations conference is able Brazilian Foreign Minister Pedro Velloso. He seldom speaks, but his bronzed, barren pate reflects the light like a halo . . . . Wisest, most experienced diplomat is Mexican Foreign Minister Castillo Najera, veteran of many conferences, former Mexican delegate to the League of Nations. Najera sits eyes closed, as if asleep. He hit the nail on the head when he proclaimed the chief fault of the United Nations is the power of veto. No nation should have it. . . Chief handicap to staging the UNO meetings at Hunter college, from male delegates' point of view, is the toilette facilities. Hunter is a women's college. . . . The Soviet government constantly blasts the American "controlled press." Yet Ambassador Gromyko, in justifying Russia's stand in Iran frequently quoted the Associated Press and the United Press. . . . Australian Foreign Minister Herbert Evatt was indirectly responsible for UNO's compromise proposal whereby Russia and Iran were asked to answer questions in writing. Although remaining in Australia, Evatt wired the plan to Australian Delegate Hodgson in New York at the very start of the conference. . . . Evatt was the smaller nation's most brilliant champion at the first UNO meeting in San Francisco.

U. S. Holds Balance

Most graphic illustration of how the United States now sits in the middle between Britain and Russia came at an early meeting of the Security council.

In previous secret meetings of the Big Three, it was known that Roosevelt kept the balance between Stalin and Churchill. But at one public session of the Security council in New York, Lord Cadogan, sitting beside United States Assistant Delegate Ed Stettinius, kept whispering messages which Stettinius passed on to Secretary Byrnes, spurring the latter to be tougher with Russia.

Stettinius, ever anxious to be helpful, passed on the messages, but Byrnes kept his own counsel.

Note—For 100 years there has been intense rivalry between the Russian and the British empires. When the czar built the Trans-Siberian Railroad to Vladivostok to get an outlet on the Pacific, Britain formed her Anglo-Japanese alliance to block the Russians. When the czar pushed down toward Turkey to get an outlet through the Dardanelles, Britain fought the Crimean war on Turkey's side. When the czar wanted an outlet to the sea through the Gulf of Persia, the British negotiated an alliance with Persia (now Iran). And after the last war, Churchill, then British war minister, sent Allied troops into Archangel and Siberia. Chief difference between Stalin and the czar is that Stalin now has a powerful political weapon which appeals to undernourished masses in Western Europe and to a very small minority in the United States.

Consumers Rebel

While OPA's new administrator, Paul Porter, was busy trying to appease farm and cotton belt congressmen the other day, he nearly had his main political prop knocked from under him.

The AFL, CIO and railroad brotherhoods served notice that they were about to withdraw their advisory staffs from the OPA. Since labor is now OPA's staunchest backer, this would have been a death blow.

What most people don't realize is that the AFL, CIO and the railroad brotherhoods maintain a staff of about twenty cost-of-living advisers which works alongside the OPA. They represent the largest block of American consumers.

However, without consulting these consumer representatives, Porter put through some highly important price increases on meat, canned goods, fresh fruit, crude oil and bread.

As a result, the AFL, CIO and brotherhood members got together and decided to recommend to their chiefs that their staffs be withdrawn from the OPA.

But when Jack Thornton, chairman of the CIO Cost of Living committee, reported this to CIO Chief Phil Murray, Murray picked up the phone and called Paul Porter. The latter was flabbergasted, urged that the consumer advisers remain and promised that they would not be by-passed in the future. For the time being they are remainnig.

Note—What labor doesn't altogether realize is that wage increases for unions are bound to result in a higher living cost—for them as well as white collar workers. For instance, Washington, D. C., milk drivers have served a strike notice for April 25. If their increased wage demands are met, the price of milk will go up for everyone in that area. Meanwhile, every wage increase in the city tends to draw labor off the farm, or else increase wages on the farm—which means a higher cost of producing food. It all goes 'round in circles.

Diplomatic Punch

Tip to former Ambassador Carlton Hayes, now head of the American Historical Society: Read "Wind in the Olive Trees," published by Boni and Gaer, for an outstanding account of the history of the Franco dictatorship in Spain. This book tells the history which so great a historian as yourself must have been aware of during your period as ambassador to Madrid. It is written by Abel Plenn, whom your office insisted OWI recall from Spain and whom your office nearly had fired after he returned to Washington. The book will make interesting reading, Mr. Ex-Ambassador.

Secretary of State Byrnes received an informal proposal from the British foreign office last week that all undeveloped oil lands in the Near East be placed under the joint United Nations Commission. Note the word undeveloped. This would leave British present holdings free of UNO control. Byrnes countered with a proposal that all oil in the Middle East—that is British, Russian, and American-owned oil—be placed under the United Nations.

Inside reason why Britain is worried over Indian independence is fear she will lose control of India's valuable thorium deposits. This is the stuff from which atomic energy comes. So long as England controls India, it controls more than a third of the world's metal for making energy. . . .Russian political agents have started to stir up trouble in Iraq against Great Britain.

OPA Raises Price Three Vegetables

Three vegetables have advanced in price and one fruit has dropped this week on OPA's community price list of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Stormy weather destroyed part of the snap bean crop, which naturally has reduced the yield and the ceiling price has advanced a cent and a half to 23 cents a pound—to compensate growers for their crop losses.

Bunched carrots are better quality this week and so command a slightly higher price. They are up a half a cent to 10½ cents a bunch.

The 1945 crop of onions are still coming out of storage and an increase in storage charges has resulted in the smaller yellow onions going up a half a cent to 10½ cents a pound and the pickler and boiler onions advancing to 13 cents a pound.

The plentiful supply of lemons is reflected in a two cent drop in ceiling price to 12½ cents a pound. Other fresh fruits and vegetables community priced retain the same prices as last week.

—An estimated 28,500 persons were killed in traffic accidents in 1945.

Literature Group Hears Miss Walsh Review "Storm"

This week's news item of the "wall of water racing 400 miles in a 4,000 mile arc," which struck the Hawaiian Islands, the Aleutians and the West Coast of North America, emphasizes the central theme of George R. Stewart's book, "Storm," Miss Mary G. Walsh told members of the Literary Group of the Woman's Civic Club, at the meeting yesterday, in reviewing the book.

"Storm," she pointed out is "no orthodox work of fiction; it is a powerful and dramatic novel, whose real heroine is a storm. In spite of the fact that the weather is one of the chief pre-occupations of the human race and affects our lives in their every detail, we do not always realize that this part of man's environment, while humanly incontrollable is not unpredictable."

Much of the explanatory action takes place in a Weather Bureau, Miss Walsh explained, and it is there that a junior meteorologist preparing the weather maps, with data as reported by radio and telegraph bestows names of girls, to the great moving low pressure areas, that is storms. To him each storm is an individual, Ruth, Lucy, Katherine and any one of them could develop into the needed relief from a drought on the coast.

Then a ship radioed a message and he made notations on his map indicating barometic disturbance off the Coast of Asia, although he doubted it would amount to anything, although there is a chance thing, there is a chance this whirl would grow to a storm. At all events the baby storm must have a name, he considered a moment and called it Maria.

As Maria grew with astounding swiftness, she swept across the Pacific and over California, affecting the lives of millions, causing death and disaster and forcing men to perform almost impossible feats in many walks of life.

Critics have objected that with such a multiplicity of characters only a few stand out, the reviewer said, they are the weather man, the road repairmen on Route 40, Rick, the lineman, Jen and her friend, Max Arnim. But Maria, herself, is a most decided character who causes more excitement and upsets more lives in her twelve days of existence than all the people in the books could ever do, given a 100 years of life, she declared.

"Storm" is told in an episodic way going from the Weather Bureau in San Francisco to the little green truck of the telephone repair service on Route 40, from the Palace department store to the restaurant in Reno, where Jen worked. Episodic it is, she said, but each episode is an adequate part of the main theme. And the book rises smoothly, swiftly and surely to a mighty climax as Maria, under the watchful eye of the junior meteorologist, grew into a major disturbance.

This week's news item of the "wall of water racing 400 miles in a 4,000 mile arc," which struck the Hawaiian Islands, the Aleutians and the West Coast of North America, emphasizes the central theme of George R. Proteins Should Be "Must" in Diet Of Mother-To-Be

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Proteins are the very stuff of life.

These complex substances might be called the building blocks of the body since they enter into the composition of every cell. They are material from which new tissues are made and worn-out cells rebuilt.

Thus, it is doubly important that the mother-to-be get plenty of proteins. On this, her own well-being and that of her unborn child depend. Yet, a number of studies of diets of pregnant women show that many do not get an adequate amount of protein.

Ruth M. Leverton and Thelma J. McMillan, Lincoln, Nebraska, carried out a study of the effectiveness of a simple diet plan which would make sure that the pregnant woman would get all of the protein she needed, particularly if she were suffering from anemia or lack of coloring in the blood. The simple recommendation which they made was that the pregnant woman should eat plenty of meat, that is, have a generous serving of meat at least twice a day.

Meat supplies plenty of protein and the proteins in meat furnish all the essential amino acids. Proteins are made up of these amino acids and it has been found that ten of them are necessary for growth and the normal repair of tissue.

Furthermore, by eating two generous servings of meat twice a day, sufficient protein is supplied without crowding out of the diet other important foods such as eggs, vegetables, fruits, wholegrain cereals and butter.

Meat contains other elements necessary for keeping the diet well-balanced, such as vitamins and minerals. It has a good appeal to the appetite. There is a widespread notion that it is not a good thing for women to eat much meat during pregnancy but the study which has been carried out proves that this is wrong.

The women studied were under 33 years of age. In addition to the regular diet and the use of meat, the majority of the women were receiving a preparation supplying vitamins A and D and calcium phosphate. For each woman who received this type of diet, another was chosen who had a similar diet without the extra meat, but instead a capsule supplying vitamin B-complex. Still another group equal in number received no supplemental to the diet.

It was found that the women who received the meat had more coloring in the blood and a larger number of red blood cells and had better success in nursing their babies than the women who received the B-complex supplement or those who received no supplement at all. Furthermore, they suffered less often from edema or swelling of the tissues.

Hence, it is concluded that recommending to pregnant women that they increase the amount of protein in their diets is helpful in keeping up the coloring and red cells in the blood, avoiding edema and helping in breast feeding.

Questions and Answers

D. L. B.: Does missing a monthly period always denote pregnancy?

Answer: Missing a monthly period does not always denote pregnancy. It is possible that there is some glandular disturbance which is responsible for your failure to menstruate. However, in order to be sure, a thorough and complete examination by the doctor is necessary. If it is found there is a glandular deficiency, treatment with glandular extracts may be of help. I suggest that you consult a specialist in disorders of this type.

Proteins Should Be "Must" in Diet Of Mother-To-Be

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Proteins are the very stuff of life.

These complex substances might be called the building blocks of the body since they enter into the composition of every cell. They are material from which new tissues are made and worn-out cells rebuilt.

Thus, it is doubly important that the mother-to-be get plenty of proteins. On this, her own well-being and that of her unborn child depend. Yet, a number of studies of diets of pregnant women show that many do not get an adequate amount of protein.

Ruth M. Leverton and Thelma J. McMillan, Lincoln, Nebraska, carried out a study of the effectiveness of a simple diet plan which would make sure that the pregnant woman would get all of the protein she needed, particularly if she were suffering from anemia or lack of coloring in the blood. The simple recommendation which they made was that the pregnant woman should eat plenty of meat, that is, have a generous serving of meat at least twice a day.

Meat supplies plenty of protein and the proteins in meat furnish all the essential amino acids. Proteins are made up of these amino acids and it has been found that ten of them are necessary for growth and the normal repair of tissue.

Furthermore, by eating two generous servings of meat twice a day, sufficient protein is supplied without crowding out of the diet other important foods such as eggs, vegetables, fruits, wholegrain cereals and butter.

Meat contains other elements necessary for keeping the diet well-balanced, such as vitamins and minerals. It has a good appeal to the appetite. There is a widespread notion that it is not a good thing for women to eat much meat during pregnancy but the study which has been carried out proves that this is wrong.

The women studied were under 33 years of age. In addition to the regular diet and the use of meat, the majority of the women were receiving a preparation supplying vitamins A and D and calcium phosphate. For each woman who received this type of diet, another was chosen who had a similar diet without the extra meat, but instead a capsule supplying vitamin B-complex. Still another group equal in number received no supplemental to the diet.

It was found that the women who received the meat had more coloring in the blood and a larger number of red blood cells and had better success in nursing their babies than the women who received the B-complex supplement or those who received no supplement at all. Furthermore, they suffered less often from edema or swelling of the tissues.

Hence, it is concluded that recommending to pregnant women that they increase the amount of protein in their diets is helpful in keeping up the coloring and red cells in the blood, avoiding edema and helping in breast feeding.

Questions and Answers

D. L. B.: Does missing a monthly period always denote pregnancy?

Answer: Missing a monthly period does not always denote pregnancy. It is possible that there is some glandular disturbance which is responsible for your failure to menstruate. However, in order to be sure, a thorough and complete examination by the doctor is necessary. If it is found there is a glandular deficiency, treatment with glandular extracts may be of help. I suggest that you consult a specialist in disorders of this type.

Najera Says U. S. Made a Mistake About Argentina

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 4. — More than meets the eye is contained in the statement of Francisco Castillo Najera, minister of foreign affairs of Mexico, that the United States has not proved its case in the so-called "blue book" condemning the Peron regime in Argentina.

Senor Najera used to be Mexican ambassador to the United States and is at present representing his country on the UNO Security Council. He was present at the San Francisco conference last year when the Latin American nations won their fight to have Argentina admitted to UNO. He knows the background of United States policy. He openly takes the position that the Washington administration made a mistake and he reveals that the other governments did not see fit to approve the blue book.

Disagreement Cited

This is a startling revelation of the disagreement that has prevailed among Pan American nations concerning recent trends in the Byrnes-Braden policies toward Argentina.

When Mr. Braden began his public speeches in Buenos Aires and when Secretary Byrnes listened to the emotional arguments of "left wingers" and in effect repudiated the policy of the late President Roosevelt toward the Argentine problem, a serious error in judgment was made.

There is no doubt that the Peron regime had Axis backing and no doubt either that it has proceeded along fascistic and totalitarian lines. The recent election was easy to win because the stage was prepared by nearly two years of strong-arm tactics inside Argentina. But the Washington government stuck its neck out. It insisted on playing a lone game instead of acting only in unison with other Pan American countries.

Most of the errors can be attributed to the misrepresentation by the "left wing" press in this country of what actually happened at San Francisco. The plan of the late President Roosevelt to recognize the Farrel regime and to admit it to the family of Pan American nations once more was put in writing and was initialed by "FDR." Nevertheless when the San Francisco conference came, the charge was made by the "left wing" that so-called "appeasers" in the department of State made the policy in opposition to the wishes of Mr. Roosevelt.

Says Welles Was Right

Nothing could have been further from the truth. The United States delegation was unanimous in getting behind the proposal to admit Argentina. What wasn't generally realized was that the Latin nations pressed for that very action and wanted Argentina to be made a member of the San Francisco conference. The "left wingers" have never accepted that explanation. It is to be hoped they will read between the lines of the Najera statement now and see how far they have wrongly influenced the Truman-Byrnes administration.

No good was served by needling the department of State and forcing it out on a limb. Only the amateurs who know nothing of the history and background of Latin American affairs could have suggested such a course. Sumner Welles from the very beginning has been eternally right in opposition to any unilateral policy with respect to Argentina.

Now the full effect of the blunder is coming to the surface. The prestige of the United States in Latin America has been damaged. Great Britain has declined to go along with our policy and has made friends with the Peron regime and will shortly recognize it. The British commercial interests in Argentina will capitalize on the mistake made by Washington.

Word comes that Russia may send a trade mission to Buenos Aires. The Peron group wants to make a deal with Russia. Yet the Soviets fought at San Francisco against admitting Argentina and called it a fascist state.

The whole episode suggests that President Truman and Mr. Byrnes listened to "left wing" clamor instead of calmly examining the facts, and turned out of the department of State last year the very men who were really striving to get rid of fascism in Argentina in the only effective way it could be done—by collective action and collective pressure by all the Pan American states.

Fletcher To Handle Kaiser-Frazer Car Agency in District

C. P. Fletcher, Washington, D. C., a former local resident, has been granted the Cumberland district agency for the new Kaiser and Frazer cars and Graham-Paige farm equipment, it was announced yesterday. Date of the opening of the agency will be revealed in the near future.

Fletcher operated the Fletcher Motor Sales and Service Company here until early in the war, handling Chrysler cars. He later had the DeSoto-Plymouth agency.

He received his agency for this territory from the Pittsburgh Kaiser-Frazer Sales Corporation, of which R. Green Annan, also a former Cumberlander, is president.

After his discharge from the army several years ago, Fletcher served as district executive sales manager for the Hunter-Wilson Distilling Company in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Fletcher To Handle Kaiser-Frazer Car Agency in District

C. P. Fletcher, Washington, D. C., a former local resident, has been granted the Cumberland district agency for the new Kaiser and Frazer cars and Graham-Paige farm equipment, it was announced yesterday. Date of the opening of the agency will be revealed in the near future.

Fletcher operated the Fletcher Motor Sales and Service Company here until early in the war, handling Chrysler cars. He later had the DeSoto-Plymouth agency.

He received his agency for this territory from the Pittsburgh Kaiser-Frazer Sales Corporation, of which R. Green Annan, also a former Cumberlander, is president.

After his discharge from the army several years ago, Fletcher served as district executive sales manager for the Hunter-Wilson Distilling Company in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

147 Appointments Are Made for Ear Clinic

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer, said yesterday that 147 appointments have been made for an ear clinic to be held here April 16, 17 and 18.

Dr. M. B. Breitstein, a member of the staff of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, will be the examining physician at the clinic, which will be held at headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. The clinic is sponsored jointly by the county health department and Mountain district, American Legion.

An audiometer recently purchased by the Mountain district and donated to the health department will be used at the clinic, Dr. Franklin said.

Two other clinics will be held next week. Dr. Virginia Harris, pediatric consultant of the state department of health, will conduct a clinic for children at the city hall from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. Wednesday, and Miss Mayton Zickefoose, nutritionist of the state department, will conduct a nutrition clinic next Thursday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Appointments for those clinics may be made at the health department office on the second floor of the Public Safety building.

Local Gulf Employe Gets 25-Year Award

At ceremonies yesterday in Altoona five employes of Gulf's Altoona District were awarded jeweled emblems and engraved certificates in recognition of long and faithful service with that company.

G. F. Hunker, Division Manager, of Pittsburgh, presented 25 year emblems to Forrest D. Carter, of Altoona, Pa., and Wilfred R. Anderson, of Cumberland. The 15 year awards were made to Neale W. Engle, of Bedford, Pa., Lynn E. Ambrose and Earl S. Laughlin, both of Altoona, Pa.

The ceremony was one of similar meetings being held in plants and offices of the Gulf Companies throughout the country. This year 4,161 men and women will receive awards.

Pvt. Botner Is Held For Army Authorities

Pvt. Fred Botner, Jr., Hamilton, Ohio, is being held here by military police for disposition of army authorities of Newton D. Baker General hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va.

MP's here said Pvt. Botner left Baker hospital Monday during the supper hour and rode a freight train as far as Yoder coaling station, near Meyersdale, where he was picked up by John O. Lint, B. and O. policeman. The officer turned the soldier over to the local Legion home and notified MP's here, authorities said.

Attend Conference

Dorothy Fees and Margaret Chase represented the Cumberland local at a regional conference of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in Baltimore.

Plans for extending organization drives were adopted and resolutions were passed calling for renewal of a 65-cent minimum wage law.

The Maryland-Virginia district includes twenty-four local affiliates and 4,000 garment workers employed in these two states and in West Virginia, it was stated at the meeting. Local members of the organization are employes of the Cumberland Undergarment company, Gay street.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

WOOD TRAILS

I always long to follow every wood trail.

You know—those unsuspected little paths branching off suddenly from the main road, winding away through the shadows, teasing and tantalizing—they seem to call to me to follow.

There they go, half hidden in moss and fern, winding around a big boulder, dipping beyond the old oak, dissolving into a green gloom in the woods. Why were they made? Where do they go? What lies at the end?

I have rarely discovered. Nearly always I've thought I was too busy to turn away. The main road had trapped me in its pressing haste and I have gone along with the crowd. But I've never gone without a wistful backward look at the path I didn't explore.

I have always known that life would have been much richer and far more exciting if I'd followed that challenging trail and I could have followed it so many times. I only thought I was too busy to go. I had let myself be tricked by the main road. Now, when it's too late, I realize what riches I lost by not turning away.

How do I know I would have found riches? Because any new adventure enriches us. The very fact that I would have changed my path and my thoughts if even for a little, would have given me a wider view of life. Even if the trail had ended in a puddle or a briar patch it would have been worth while for I would have found wonder and beauty and fresh challenge as I went along.

How much we all miss by passing up the wood trails! Every day we meet them—strange faces, unusual opportunities, situations we instinctively avoid because they differ from the hackneyed, routine activities to which we are accustomed. Yet each one is a wood trail, calling—challenging. And we'd be wealthier if we'd step aside and follow

We'd be younger, too. We grow old not only in the flesh but because we think the same old thoughts, practice the same old habits, shrink from anything new and different. Yet life is forever offering us a chance to grow younger—to turn our backs on the dusty, trampled main road and follow some new idea.

And suppose it does end in a mud puddle or a briar patch? We'd be stronger for the experience anyway. We'd be wiser for the wonder and beauty and newness that we have found along the way.

Walter Hallanan Praises Election Of Carroll Reece

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 4—Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman for West Virginia, in a statement today praised the election by the G.O.P. National Committee of B. Carroll Reece as chairman.

"I was very much pleased over the election of my good friend Congressman Carroll Reece as the new chairman of the Republican national committee," Hallanan said. "In my opinion he will make a great chairman and will lead the Republican party to victory in the election of a Republican Congress next November.

"Carroll Reece has a distinguished record in the field of battle and likewise in the field of political action. He was an outstanding hero in World War I and has been honored and decorated for his valor and heroism as few men have. He enlisted as a private in World War I and came out as a major in a New England regiment. He carries on his breast practically every decoration for distinguished service, including the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal, the Purple Heart, and the Croix de Guerre with palms, and also citations for bravery by Marshal Petain and General Pershing.

Political Success Cited

"Likewise his name is symbolic of political success. He has never been associated with defeat. He has carried high the torch of Republicanism and has represented the people of the mountain district of Tennessee for twelve consecutive terms in the House of Representatives. Since 1932 there has been no opponent to face him in the elections.

"He is not of the 'glamor type,' but is known for his tireless energy, his sterling integrity, and his organizing ability. One of his great assets as chairman is that he knows the intimacies and the personalities of every congressional district in the United State, and he will give intelligent co-operation to Chairman Halleck of the Republican Congressional committee and Chairman Townsend of the Senatorial committee.

"First things must come first and the election of a Republican congress this year is the certain road to the election of a Republican president in 1948. A Republican congress will be able to cut off the great waste of money that has gone to build the New Deal bureaucracy —the greatest political army the world has ever known.

Maryland Is "Border State"

"We elect a Republican president whenever we carry some of the border states like Maryland, Missouri, and Kentucky," Hallanan's statement continued. "It is reasonably known that from one of these states will come the New Deal presidential candidate in 1948 and in my opinion it is good political sense for the Republican party to make a definite gesture toward these border states that demonstrates our interests in bringing them into the Republican fold.

"The Republican leaders of the House and Senate are gratified over the election of Carroll Reece because they know they can go along with him in complete harmony. With him as chairman of the Republican national committee the congressional and senatorial leaders will constitute a great team in directing the Republican campaign. Chairman Reece, with full knowledge that his congressional district will send a Republican to take his seat in Congress, will resign in order that he may give his full time and energy to the job that is one of the most important assignments that any man ever undertook. Under his energetic leadership I am confident the Republicans will march to victory in November."

$200,000 Released For Potomac State School at Keyser

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 4—Appropriations in amounts exceeding $200,000 for Potomac State schools, made during the 1945 session of the West Virginia legislature, were withheld, pending recommendations by the legislative interim education committee. The report of the committee was acted upon at a recent special session of the legislature, and the appropriations already made were released.

The larger portion, $165,000, of the sum allotted to the local school is for the erection of a science building. That addition to the school plant will be constructed as building materials become available for such work.

The enrollment of ex-servicemen has been heavy. This additional service and other necessary extra expenses for the year advanced the total expenditure far beyond the estimate. The balance of the amount allocated, $40,831, is intended to meet these demands on the school budget.

Easter Assembly Planned

Potomac State school will observe the annual Easter assembly in the school auditorium Wednesday, April 17, at 11 a. m. The program will be directed by Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater and Mrs. E. E. Church. Devotions will be in charge of the Rev. Paul Artis, pre-theology major.

Others participating will be Marjorie Edwards, reading "The Robe"; Newton Meade, tenor solo, "The Palms"; the glee club, two numbers, "The Sheep and Lambs" and "Hear My Prayer, O Lord."

Speech Contest Set

The annual speech contest for district No. 9, for high school students, will be held in Potomac State school Saturday, April 13.

The contest includes debate, extemporaneous speech, oration and poetry. The winner in each event receives a scholarship, two-year tuition at Potomac State.

Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, chairman contest committee, has received entries from high schools in Keyser, Ridgeley, Petersburg, Capon Bridge and Paw Paw.

Football To Be Resumed

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough announces that football will be resumed at Potomac State this year, after an interim because of war conditions lasting since 1941. Twenty-one men reported for practice on March 26. Coach Lough is asking for a squad of thirty.

Eight games are scheduled, running from September 20 to November 16, with one open date, October 25 or 26. Four of the scheduled games are on the home field, October 12 and November 2, 9 and 16.

Brief Items

Potomac State has accepted an invitation to send a princess to represent the school at the nineteenth apple blossom festival to be held in Winchester, Va., May 2 and 3. The school faculty will make the selection, announcement of which will be made through festival headquarters in Winchester some time in April.

A series of evangelistic services will be held in First Presbyterian church, beginning Sunday evening and continuing through Friday evening, with the Rev. Charles W. Kernan, pastor of the Moorefield Presbyterian church, preaching at 7:30 each evening. The services will be directed by the Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin, pastor of the church. Music will be by the church choirs, Young People's and Adults' alternating.

Mrs. Nettie Arnold Tutwiler, of near Burlington, who was admitted to Potomac Valley hospital several days ago, continues seriously ill. Others admitted to the hospital are Mrs. Dorothy Linaburg, Keyser, and Guisseppe Dangelo, Cumberland, Md.

Keyser Lodge No. 662, L.O.O.M., elected officers for the ensuing year, Tuesday night. They are James Robey, governor; Frank Robinson, junior governor; A. V. Gallion, prelate; Harry West, treasurer, and John Hessen, trustee.

Hearing Will Be Held at Parsons On Phone Rates

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., April 4—The Public Service Commission of West Virginia will hold a public hearing in the court house in Parsons on May 7, in response to a request from the Duncan Telephane Company of Thomas for authority to change its rates, tolls and charges for telephone service at Parsons, Davis, Thomas and other places in the county. The order was entered by the commission on Monday, April 1.

Officials of the local telephone company have petitioned the commission for an increase of rates which will allow a more satisfactory service throughout the county.

Gerald H. Parks, president of the Duncan Telephone Company reports that if the public service commission approves the new rate the company plans to install all new and modern esuipment in the county.

Dial phones would be installed in Parsons and Davis with a manual switchboard being placed in the Thomas office. The new rate would not go into effect until after the new system was installed, but Parks said that as soon as the commission approves the proposed rates an order will be placed for the materials.

Lunch Report Given

Reardon Cuppett, county superintendent of schools announced today that fifty-four gallons of concentrated orange juice have been received from the state department of public assistance and distributed to the schools having the hot lunch program which are; Parsons high, Parsons grades, Porterwood, Thomas, Hamrick, Mill Run and Flanagan Hill and Mount View.

Walter Hallanan Praises Election Of Carroll Reece

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 4—Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman for West Virginia, in a statement today praised the election by the G.O.P. National Committee of B. Carroll Reece as chairman.

"I was very much pleased over the election of my good friend Congressman Carroll Reece as the new chairman of the Republican national committee," Hallanan said. "In my opinion he will make a great chairman and will lead the Republican party to victory in the election of a Republican Congress next November.

"Carroll Reece has a distinguished record in the field of battle and likewise in the field of political action. He was an outstanding hero in World War I and has been honored and decorated for his valor and heroism as few men have. He enlisted as a private in World War I and came out as a major in a New England regiment. He carries on his breast practically every decoration for distinguished service, including the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal, the Purple Heart, and the Croix de Guerre with palms, and also citations for bravery by Marshal Petain and General Pershing.

Political Success Cited

"Likewise his name is symbolic of political success. He has never been associated with defeat. He has carried high the torch of Republicanism and has represented the people of the mountain district of Tennessee for twelve consecutive terms in the House of Representatives. Since 1932 there has been no opponent to face him in the elections.

"He is not of the 'glamor type,' but is known for his tireless energy, his sterling integrity, and his organizing ability. One of his great assets as chairman is that he knows the intimacies and the personalities of every congressional district in the United State, and he will give intelligent co-operation to Chairman Halleck of the Republican Congressional committee and Chairman Townsend of the Senatorial committee.

"First things must come first and the election of a Republican congress this year is the certain road to the election of a Republican president in 1948. A Republican congress will be able to cut off the great waste of money that has gone to build the New Deal bureaucracy —the greatest political army the world has ever known.

Maryland Is "Border State"

"We elect a Republican president whenever we carry some of the border states like Maryland, Missouri, and Kentucky," Hallanan's statement continued. "It is reasonably known that from one of these states will come the New Deal presidential candidate in 1948 and in my opinion it is good political sense for the Republican party to make a definite gesture toward these border states that demonstrates our interests in bringing them into the Republican fold.

"The Republican leaders of the House and Senate are gratified over the election of Carroll Reece because they know they can go along with him in complete harmony. With him as chairman of the Republican national committee the congressional and senatorial leaders will constitute a great team in directing the Republican campaign. Chairman Reece, with full knowledge that his congressional district will send a Republican to take his seat in Congress, will resign in order that he may give his full time and energy to the job that is one of the most important assignments that any man ever undertook. Under his energetic leadership I am confident the Republicans will march to victory in November."

$200,000 Released For Potomac State School at Keyser

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 4—Appropriations in amounts exceeding $200,000 for Potomac State schools, made during the 1945 session of the West Virginia legislature, were withheld, pending recommendations by the legislative interim education committee. The report of the committee was acted upon at a recent special session of the legislature, and the appropriations already made were released.

The larger portion, $165,000, of the sum allotted to the local school is for the erection of a science building. That addition to the school plant will be constructed as building materials become available for such work.

The enrollment of ex-servicemen has been heavy. This additional service and other necessary extra expenses for the year advanced the total expenditure far beyond the estimate. The balance of the amount allocated, $40,831, is intended to meet these demands on the school budget.

Easter Assembly Planned

Potomac State school will observe the annual Easter assembly in the school auditorium Wednesday, April 17, at 11 a. m. The program will be directed by Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater and Mrs. E. E. Church. Devotions will be in charge of the Rev. Paul Artis, pre-theology major.

Others participating will be Marjorie Edwards, reading "The Robe"; Newton Meade, tenor solo, "The Palms"; the glee club, two numbers, "The Sheep and Lambs" and "Hear My Prayer, O Lord."

Speech Contest Set

The annual speech contest for district No. 9, for high school students, will be held in Potomac State school Saturday, April 13.

The contest includes debate, extemporaneous speech, oration and poetry. The winner in each event receives a scholarship, two-year tuition at Potomac State.

Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, chairman contest committee, has received entries from high schools in Keyser, Ridgeley, Petersburg, Capon Bridge and Paw Paw.

Football To Be Resumed

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough announces that football will be resumed at Potomac State this year, after an interim because of war conditions lasting since 1941. Twenty-one men reported for practice on March 26. Coach Lough is asking for a squad of thirty.

Eight games are scheduled, running from September 20 to November 16, with one open date, October 25 or 26. Four of the scheduled games are on the home field, October 12 and November 2, 9 and 16.

Brief Items

Potomac State has accepted an invitation to send a princess to represent the school at the nineteenth apple blossom festival to be held in Winchester, Va., May 2 and 3. The school faculty will make the selection, announcement of which will be made through festival headquarters in Winchester some time in April.

A series of evangelistic services will be held in First Presbyterian church, beginning Sunday evening and continuing through Friday evening, with the Rev. Charles W. Kernan, pastor of the Moorefield Presbyterian church, preaching at 7:30 each evening. The services will be directed by the Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin, pastor of the church. Music will be by the church choirs, Young People's and Adults' alternating.

Mrs. Nettie Arnold Tutwiler, of near Burlington, who was admitted to Potomac Valley hospital several days ago, continues seriously ill. Others admitted to the hospital are Mrs. Dorothy Linaburg, Keyser, and Guisseppe Dangelo, Cumberland, Md.

Keyser Lodge No. 662, L.O.O.M., elected officers for the ensuing year, Tuesday night. They are James Robey, governor; Frank Robinson, junior governor; A. V. Gallion, prelate; Harry West, treasurer, and John Hessen, trustee.

Woman Who Lives "Horrible Life" Won't Leave It

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

There's no one who believes, more firmly than I do, that a marriage should be given every chance, the benefit of every doubt, before either of the two who made it decides to walk out on it.

For those who start looking for the nearest exit the moment the going gets rough, I have no possible use. I believe in sticking by a marital ship, baling like all get-out to keep it from sinking, just as long as there seems to be the ghost of a chance of helping it to right itself and go sailing smoothly on its course once more.

But when it becomes perfectly evident that nothing can be done to save the situation; that the ship is too badly smashed to be salvaged, then I believe in diving overboard no matter how cold the water, is, and swimming for your life to solid ground again. Traditions of the sea notwithstanding, I see no sense whatever in the self-destruction of going down with a doomed vessel.

Which, apparently, is what the wife who writes the following letter is doing.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I have been married to a man for sixteen years, who is much older than I am. I am 32.

"I have seven children to look after. My husband has been working away from home for the past six years, and only comes home every three or four months. I never know what it is to see him draw a sober breath. I am not treated as good by him as a hired housekeeper should be. He is always ready to abuse me, and never thinks I should see a bit of pleasure or the children either. He never takes me out, and I now hear from many people that he takes other women out. He tells me he doesn't love me.

"I have gone out and worked in factories when he was out of work in order to take care of the family, and when he is around he accuses me of going with other men which I never have done, but have always been true to him. He has ordered me many times to leave, but I have tried to stay on to raise my children the way I want them to be raised, and I thought maybe he would change his way of living, but he seems to be getting worse instead of better.

"What I want to know is must I go on living this horrible life, or must I get someone to look after my children and go to work, as I have had to do before? I do want to hold my home together if there is any possible chance.

"UNDECIDED WIFE"

Sixteen years is a long time to go on living a horrible life, "Undecided Wife." And I would think your idea of getting someone to look after your children while you go out to work to support them was the best thing to do right now.

Naturally you want to hold your family together. But I don't see any reason why, if you are able to work and hold it together yourself you should let your husband make a doormat of you by staying dependent on him.

Under all the circumstances you mention, you should be able to get a legal separation from your husband if you want to, obtaining custody of your children. Why not do something about this before he ruins your children's lives too?

LOSE UGLY POUNDS FAST WITHOUT HUNGER MISERY!

Why try to regain a trim, youthful figure the hard way—why make yourself miserable trying to starve yourself thinner—torturing yourself with painful and possibly injurious exercises—or taking chances on harmful reducing drugs! You'll be amazed at how easy and pleasant it is for most people who are burdened and discouraged with dangerous excess weight to lose as much as three to five pounds a week, the modern, harmless Tremett Way.

Tremett Tastes As Good As Malted Milk. Helps Prevent Hunger-Pangs While Reducing!

Most people who determine to take off unsightly poundage—and keep it off—find it next to impossible to resist fattening foods long enough to insure results. But when Tremett, the amazing food supplement, is taken according to directions, the urge to "cheat" on reducing diets is no longer a temptation. The suffering and misery of reducing is banished! For Tremett helps keep you satisfied and filled—and contains the necessary minerals and vitamins to normally sustain those on restricted diets. And Tremett tastes as good as a soda fountain drink! It's actually delicious!

Results — Or Money Back In Full!

Tremett must give you the results you seek—easier, more pleasantly—and within 30 days—or your money will be refunded in full. There is only one genuine Tremett. Accept no "just as good" substitute.

Doctor's Wife Loses Nearly Five Pounds

"Being a doctor's wife I could hardly believe Tremett could do all you claim. Tried one bottle and lost nearly five pounds in a week." Mrs. H. L., Florida.

Reduces From size 42 to size 20

"Before taking Tremett my niece wore size 42 dress. Now she wears size 20 and even that is too large. She reduced her waist five or six inches and lost weight." Mrs. O. M., Ohio.

Friends See Results

"My friends have seen the results of my taking Tremett. Now they want it, too. I wouldn't be without such a beneficial product." Mrs. R. B., California.

THEY USED TO CALL HER FATTY

Recommended Tremett to 25 Friends

"I have been taking Tremett for two months with wonderful results. I have sold 25 other persons on this amazing product." Miss N. P., Louisiana.

LOSE UGLY POUNDS FAST WITHOUT HUNGER MISERY!

"Why try to regain a trim, youthful figure the hard way—why make yourself miserable trying to starve yourself thinner—torturing yourself with painful and possibly injurious exercises—or taking chances on harmful reducing drugs! You'll be amazed at how easy and pleasant it is for most people who are burdened and discouraged with dangerous excess weight to lose as much as three to five pounds a week, the modern, harmless Tremett Way.

Tremett Tastes As Good As Malted Milk. Helps Prevent Hunger-Pangs While Reducing!

Most people who determine to take off unsightly poundage—and keep it off—find it next to impossible to resist fattening foods long enough to insure results. But when Tremett, the amazing food supplement, is taken according to directions, the urge to "cheat" on reducing diets is no longer a temptation. The suffering and misery of reducing is banished! For Tremett helps keep you satisfied and filled—and contains the necessary minerals and vitamins to normally sustain those on restricted diets. And Tremett tastes as good as a soda fountain drink! It's actually delicious!

Results — Or Money Back In Full!

Tremett must give you the results you seek—easier, more pleasantly—and within 30 days—or your money will be refunded in full. There is only one genuine Tremett. Accept no "just as good" substitute.

Doctor's Wife Loses Nearly Five Pounds

"Being a doctor's wife I could hardly believe Tremett could do all you claim. Tried one bottle and lost nearly five pounds in a week." Mrs. H. L., Florida.

Reduces From size 42 to size 20

"Before taking Tremett my niece wore size 42 dress. Now she wears size 20 and even that is too large. She reduced her waist five or six inches and lost weight." Mrs. O. M., Ohio.

Friends See Results

"My friends have seen the results of my taking Tremett. Now they want it, too. I wouldn't be without such a beneficial product." Mrs. R. B., California.

THEY USED TO CALL HER FATTY

Recommended Tremett to 25 Friends

"I have been taking Tremett for two months with wonderful results. I have sold 25 other persons on this amazing product." Miss N. P., Louisiana.

Babson Says Public Utilities Investors Should Know Truth

By ROGER BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, April 5.—I dislike to see any more electric utilities taken over by the public at the present time. The utilities did well during the war and are now entitled to show what they can do in times of peace. Therefore, I wish it strictly understood that this week's column is not an appeal for public ownership. Yet, I do believe that investors in public utilities are entitled to know the truth.

Federal Power Commission

Up to now, public utilities have been regulated only by municipal authorities and state commissions who have understood local needs and conditions. In most cases they have been fair to the public, to the employees, and to the shareholders. Recently, however, the Federal Power Commission has come into the picture in a most threatening manner. The original idea was for this commission to function only in connection with interstate problems; but current interpretations of the law enable it to interfere with most all electric utilities.

The Federal Power Commission is not content to render decisions based upon precedent. Shooting is not the only method of killing a man. A slow death may be brought about by starvation, by abuse, or even by fear. The utilities claim that the Federal Power Commission is using this latter method to bring about public ownership through unfair propaganda and an attempt to ruin the reputation of utility executives. Whether we like it or not, this program is destined to bring about government ownership of the utilities. This will probably be through large federal authorities, with the country divided into districts corresponding with the Federal Reserve Boards.

Depreciation Policies

A Federal Power Commission's formula demands that all depreciation charges, in excess of the cost of replacements and statuatory dividends, shall be deducted from the appraisal price when and if the property is taken over by the public. This means that the public is already engaged in buying these properties on the installment plan!

The commission claims that a utility has only three legitimate charges: (1) Operating Expenses, including taxes and interest on the debt; (2) Depreciation, which the commission recognizes only as a "reimbursement for facilities actually withdrawn from service and only enough to make good any actual wastage of capital;" and (3) Dividends, equivalent to an accepted allowable rate of interest on the "net property value" which words immediately bring up many conflicting views.

Rate Comparisons

The Federal Power Commission can show the public that rates for electricity can be very much less under public control. This, of course, is possible owing to the fact that the government can borrow money much more cheaply than a private utility; also to the fact that a publicly owned utility need pay no federal income taxes. As these amount to over 30%, it can be seen that they are a great factor. Of course this merely means that the government must collect this money from other taxpayers if the utilities are exemp from taxation. But this point is soft-pedaled by those who advocate public ownership.

The Federal Power Commission can show the people of a community that, by taking over the utilities, they can (1) get a reduction in rates through the saving of interest charges, and (2) get back, within twenty years, all that they pay for the property through the saving in federal income taxes. As the public gradually realizes this fact, there will be more and more properties taken over by authorities. Furthermore, the above mentioned depreciation formula and the even more severe original cost formula may help the public in getting these properties at bargain prices.

Socialism Increasing

Just now we hear little about public ownership in this country, but it is spreading at a rapid rate throughout Europe and the British Empire. Sooner or later the shadow of socialism will fall on the United States. The New Deal is preparing the ground. When it hits us the utilities will be one of the first groups to suffer. The bonds of public utility operating companies should be perfectly safe; but it may be wise for investors in utility stocks to cash in now before their properties are forcibly taken over by public authorities.

Some of the players down there retain the color and charm of the bullfighters. One fellow walked up to the plate the other day with a scarlet quilt over his bat and his hand on his hip. He looked like a Hollywood floorwalker showing Salvador Dali some shirt material.

And they must get out of the habit of taking their siestas any time they want. The other day, right in the middle of the game, three of them went to sleep on the bases. Keiser, Harbert Tie for Masters Tournament Lead

Most Golfing Stars Have Trouble with Tough Course and Wind

By GAYLE TALBOT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4 (AP) — Herman Keiser, of Akron, Ohio, and Chick Harbert, of Detroit, a couple of long shots who played around strictly to the applause of their caddies, slipped in with a brace of 69's today to take a two-stroke lead over the nation's best golfers in the first round of the $10,000 Masters golf tournament.

But for the exceptional performance of this pair — Keiser shot a sizzling 32 on the first nine — the tough 6,800-yard Augusta National course, plus a roaring west wind, scored an almost complete victory over the boys who have been ripping lesser links apart during the winter.

Some of them were nettled tonight, declaring, among other things, that the individual who placed the flags at points on the greens where they couldn't be found without a search warrant should be had up for cruelty to golfers.

Only three entrants besides Keiser and Harbert succeeded in beating the course's stiff par of 72. They were Toney Penna, of Dayton, Ohio, Vic Ghezzi, of Knoxville, and Freddie Haas, of New Orleans, the former amateur star who turned professional during the winter. Each scored 71.

Bracketed with the great Byron Nelson at 72 were Johnny Bulla, of Phoenix, Ariz., Jimmy Thomson, of Los Angeles, and the amateur, Carey Middlecoff, of Memphis, who still is in the army. At 73 were Jim Turnesa, of New York City, and George Schneiter, of Salt Lake City.

Ben Hogan, co-favorite with Nelson to win the $2,500 first prize, had a battle all the way with the bunkers and the wind. He wound up in a tie with five others, including Sammy Snead and Lawson Little, at 74. Herman Barron, of White Plains, N. Y., Jim Ferrier, of Chicago, and Chandler Harper, of Portsmouth, Va., shared this august company.

Jimmy Demaret, another past winner, took a rousing 75, along with the immortal Bobby Jones, Harold McSpaden, and Dutch Harrison. Horton Smith, who won the Masters twice in other years, and Henry Picard, the victor on one occasion, soared to 78 and 79, respectively.

Ralph Guldahl, of Chicago, who set the tournament record by winning the '39 event with 279 strokes, blew himself to a tremendous 85.

Benny McCoy Is To Get Tryout With the Tigers

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 4 (AP) —Benny McCoy, who admits the best break he ever got in baseball was being cut free from the Detroit Tigers in 1940, is back where he started in the Major Leagues—trying out for second base with the World Champion Bengals.

Released unconditionally by the Philadelphia Athletics a week ago, the Grand Rapids, Mich., product came first to the Tigers to talk business for 1946. Detroit, burdened with infield weaknesses, was quick to jump at the opportunity of giving the ex-sailor a trial.

Manager Steve O'Neill is badly in need of reinforcements at second base, where Eddie Mayo has seen little action this spring because of a lame back.

"We'll give McCoy a week's tryout on our exhibition trip," General Manager George M. Trautman said today. "If he makes the grade we'll talk contract later."

The Tigers will be happy to make room for McCoy, who came to them first in 1938 after hitting better than .300 three straight years in the minors.

Over parts of two seasons in Detroit Benny played only sixty-one games, batting .295, and in December 1939 the Tigers sept him to Philadelphia with Pitcher George Coffman in exchange for Outfielder Wally Moses.

The Deal never was completed, for a month later the late commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis declared McCoy and ninety other players controlled by the Tigers free agents as part of the club's penalty for mismanagement of farm club affairs. That was McCoy's "big break."

Benny, free to make a deal for himself, hooked on with the Athletics for a $45,000 bonus and a two-year contract at $10,000 a year.

RACING COMMISSION WILL RECOMMEND FIREPROOF STABLES

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—Chairman George P. Mahoney disclosed tonight that the Maryland Racing Commission would recommend that operators of both major and minor race tracks in this state replace wooden stables with fireproof buildings and adopt measures designed to lower fire hazards.

Mahoney said the commission would urge the installation of sprinkler systems in stables which could not feasibly be replaced; the employment of special policemen to serve also as guards, and the fireproofing of rooms for stable grooms.

In addition, Mahoney said, the commission would propose the construction of central kitchens in which attendants could prepare hot mash for horses, and cook and wash for themselves.

The proposals were disclosed five days after a disastrous fire at Bowie, which cost the lives of twenty-one thoroughbreds, and one day after a fire at Laurel, which destroyed one stable but no horses.

Mahoney noted that the commission had recommended various improvements last fall, including fireproof grandstands and racing plant structures. He expressed belief the new recommendations could be undertaken "despite the drastic curbs imposed on new construction, as materials become available."

Wooden barns are used to quarter horses at Bowie, Havre De Grace, Pimlico and Laurel. Most are equipped with electricity but usually heat is supplied by portable stoves burning coal or kerosene.

Mahoney said it might not be feasible "for a variety of reasons" to replace some stables that are in excellent condition. The commission therefore suggested, he said, that managers consider the possibility of installing sprinkler systems.

The commission head said it was desirable to have separate quarters for attendants to lessen the danger of fires caused by lighted cigarets.

Mahoney disclosed that he had already taken steps to "sell" the program to track operators. He said he had conferred with Alton S. Jump, acting manager of the Bowie plant, who promised co-operation.

Kyne Will Try To Buy Suffolk Downs Track

SAN MATEO, Calif., April 4 (AP) —William P. Kyne, manager of Bay Meadows race track, said today he would leave for Boston tomorrow to try to buy Suffolk Downs race track.

Kyne said if he was successful in the bidding he would set aside the profits of $250,000 of his investment for veterans rehabilitation in Massachusetts.

Kyne did not indicate what he thought the price for Suffolk Downs would be.

Golf League Formed

WINCHESTER, Va., April 4 (AP)—The Bi-State Golf League including clubs of Winchester, Front Royal and Ayexandria, in Virginia, and Martinsburg, W. Va., will reopen the circuit this year, it was announced here today.

Matches will be played on the home courses of each club with play starting May 26 at Front Royal. Other dates are June 16 at Alexandria; July 14, at Martinsburg, and August 4 at Winchester. The fifth and final match will be played August 18 on a neutral course.

Kurowski Would Like To Play for Phils If He Is Traded

READING, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Holdout George (Whitey) Kurowski would like to join the cellar-monopolizing Phillies if the St. Louis Cardinals put him on the trading block but definitely isn't interested in the outlaw Mexican League.

However, the possibility of the Red Birds turning loose their blond third baseman seemed remote today as he made ready to depart for St. Louis to talk contract with the Cards' Sam Breadon. He's reported aiming at a $12,500 salary.

"Sure I'd like to play for the Phils if the Cards were going to trade me," said Whitey while training near his home. "The Phils are an up-and-coming organization and the way the Carpenters have spent money for players they show they are eager to have a winning team —and better still, willing to pay for it."

Dead Heat Features Bowie Program

BOWIE, Md., April 4 (AP)—A dead heat between In Vogue and Nora Belle in the $2,900 fifth race, featured the program at Bowie today, when some 10,000 customers were treated to a series of close finishes.

In Vogue, with Harold Allaiger up, paid $4.60 for $2 to win, while Nora Belle, ridden by Aubrey Snellings, returned $3.60.

Goldie's Sugar, a winner Monday, became the first horse to gain a second victory at Bowie this season, by capturing today's first race.

The right-handed, 26-year-old Foreman was called into service while he was pitching for Chattanooga. He weighs 185 pounds and stands six-feet one-inch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—District Attorney Leo J. Hagerty today ordered an autopsy and a conference of all principals in the professional bout which resulted in the death of Cleveland heavyweight Dave Mason. He fought Joe Matisi, of Endicott, N. Y.

To Discuss League

Organization of an inter-department softball league at the Celanese plant will be discussed tonight at a meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus home. Four clubs have indicated that will play in the league if it is organized.

Woodmen Will Meet

The Woodmen of the World softball team will hold a meeting next Monday night at 9 o'clock at the Woodmen home, Brace Lee, manager announces. All of last year's players as well as others who wish to try for the team are urged to attend the meeting.

RACING COMMISSION WILL RECOMMEND FIREPROOF STABLES

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—Chairman George P. Mahoney disclosed tonight that the Maryland Racing Commission would recommend that operators of both major and minor race tracks in this state replace wooden stables with fireproof buildings and adopt measures designed to lower fire hazards.

Mahoney said the commission would urge the installation of sprinkler systems in stables which could not feasibly be replaced; the employment of special policemen to serve also as guards, and the fireproofing of rooms for stable grooms.

In addition, Mahoney said, the commission would propose the construction of central kitchens in which attendants could prepare hot mash for horses, and cook and wash for themselves.

The proposals were disclosed five days after a disastrous fire at Bowie, which cost the lives of twenty-one thoroughbreds, and one day after a fire at Laurel, which destroyed one stable but no horses.

Mahoney noted that the commission had recommended various improvements last fall, including fireproof grandstands and racing plant structures. He expressed belief the new recommendations could be undertaken "despite the drastic curbs imposed on new construction, as materials become available."

Wooden barns are used to quarter horses at Bowie, Havre De Grace, Pimlico and Laurel. Most are equipped with electricity but usually heat is supplied by portable stoves burning coal or kerosene.

Mahoney said it might not be feasible "for a variety of reasons" to replace some stables that are in excellent condition. The commission therefore suggested, he said, that managers consider the possibility of installing sprinkler systems.

The commission head said it was desirable to have separate quarters for attendants to lessen the danger of fires caused by lighted cigarets.

Mahoney disclosed that he had already taken steps to "sell" the program to track operators. He said he had conferred with Alton S. Jump, acting manager of the Bowie plant, who promised co-operation.

Kyne Will Try To Buy Suffolk Downs Track

SAN MATEO, Calif., April 4 (AP) —William P. Kyne, manager of Bay Meadows race track, said today he would leave for Boston tomorrow to try to buy Suffolk Downs race track.

Kyne said if he was successful in the bidding he would set aside the profits of $250,000 of his investment for veterans rehabilitation in Massachusetts.

Kyne did not indicate what he thought the price for Suffolk Downs would be.

Golf League Formed

WINCHESTER, Va., April 4 (AP)— The Bi-State Golf League including clubs of Winchester, Front Royal and Ayexandria, in Virginia, and Martinsburg, W. Va., will reopen the circuit this year, it was announced here today.

Matches will be played on the home courses of each club with play starting May 26 at Front Royal. Other dates are June 16 at Alexandria; July 14, at Martinsburg, and August 4 at Winchester. The fifth and final match will be played August 18 on a neutral course.

Kurowski Would Like To Play for Phils If He Is Traded

READING, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Holdout George (Whitey) Kurowski would like to join the cellar-monopolizing Phillies if the St. Louis Cardinals put him on the trading block but definitely isn't interested in the outlaw Mexican League.

However, the possibility of the Red Birds turning loose their blond third baseman seemed remote today as he made ready to depart for St. Louis to talk contract with the Cards' Sam Breadon. He's reported aiming at a $12,500 salary.

"Sure I'd like to play for the Phils if the Cards were going to trade me," said Whitey while training near his home. "The Phils are an up-and-coming organization and the way the Carpenters have spent money for players they show they are eager to have a winning team —and better still, willing to pay for it."

Prince Regent Is Favored To Win Grand National

By BILL MACKLIN

LIVERPOOL, England, April 4 (AP) — Rain arrived with the late crowd tonight but Prince Regent—an all-weather horse — remained the outstanding choice to win the one hundred third running of the Grand National Steeplechase tomorrow and upset a jinx that has followed the favorites since 1934.

The 11-year-old Irish jumper has triumphed more than once on a heavy course and after a fortnight of the finest English weather in a century, Aintree's track was still fast after intermittent showers. It would take an inch of rain to soften it materially.

Meantime, odds on Prince Regent in the latest call over in London dropped to an unprecedented low of 9 to 4, making him the cheapest horse since Golden Miller won as a 2 to 1 favorite in 1934.

Prince Regent is well rested since his triumph in the Gold Cup race three weeks ago and today his trainer pronounced him in perfect condition for the gruelling four and a half mile, thirty-jump marathon that gets under way at 10:15 a. m. (EST).

The jinx hanging over Prince Regent doesn't worry owner James V. Rank, millionaire sportsman, who hopes to satisfy a thirty-year-old ambition by winning the National. Reminded that a favorite had not triumphed in a dozen years, Rank replied, "Then it is time one did."

The expected starting field was cut to thirty-four today when Home Lover, a 50 to 1 entry, went lame; Rank pulled his Keep Faith, and Dorothy Paget indicated she would not run Roman Hackle and Housewarmer.

If the Prince comes through, the bookies stand to lose $20,000,000 in the opinion of London race writers, since he is coupled in thousands of doubles at long odds with Langton Abbot, winner of yesterday's Lincolnshire Handicap.

Behind the Prince in public favor are Limestone Edward at 100 to 9, Miss Paget's Dunshaughlin at 100 to 6, and Red Rower, Kami and Knight's Crest at 20 to 1.

But many of the longshots probably will get numerous last-minute bets. The small bettor can't forget that Tipperary Tim won in 1928 at 100 to 1.

Shipley Selects Lineup For Opening Games

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 4 (AP) —Burton Shipley, veteran University of Maryland baseball coach, announced today the Terrapins' batting order and line-up for the season's opener here at 4 p. m. Friday against Coach Jerry O'Brien's Kings Point Merchant Marines.

The two teams will play again at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday.

Don Gleasner, Terp three-letter man who is being watched by several big league clubs, is slated to bat in clean-up position. The pitching assignments for the two weekend games against the Mariners will go to the Maryland hurlers who look best in pre-game warmups.

Bill Robel, Kings Point cadet from Baltimore, is expected to start on the mound for the Merchant Marines.

Commission Does Not Give Meade License

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Stewards of the jockey club at their meeting today did not grant Don Meade a license to ride on New York race tracks, but instructed him to appear at their next meeting.

The former star jockey, winning rider in the 1933 Kentucky Derby, wh ohas been fined or suspended thirty-nine times in thirteen years, has not had a license since March 26, 1945, when he was suspended at the Hipodromo De Las Americas track in Mexico City because of arguments with officials. At that time the stewards recommended to the Mexican Racing Commission that he should not be licensed in the future.

"The license of Don Meade is withheld and he is instructed to appear before the stewards at their next meeting," said a statement after the jockey club meeting. Date of the next meeting was not disclosed.

Meade had applied to the license committee here on Tuesday for permission to ride in the 1946 New York season which opens Saturday at Jamaica.

Bishop Is Pleased With Middie Nine

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 4 (AP)—Coach Max Bishop said today he was well pleased with his Middies' 4-3 baseball victory over Fordham university yesterday which indicated that after ironing out some kinks the Navy nine "ought to be in good shape."

"There were spells of excellent ball playing," Bishop declared, "and then again we had our weak periods in which a number of boys got caught off base and so on."

He said pitcher Ron Burton had hurled a "nice game" for the season's test, and he also commended catcher Ken Woods for his share in the proceedings.

Navy's veteran first sacker, Bob Hill—who by the way is the Naval Academy's heavyweight boxing champion—started where he left off last season, hammering out a triple and two doubles and "playing a generally fine game," Bishop said.

It was Andy Frahler's "very pretty homerun" which clinched the contest and which climaxed one of Navy's power bursts in the seventh frame, Bishop declared. Frahler, a right hand fielder, is also slated for occasional mound chores.

On the other hand, the mentor added, "there was some uoose running and carelessness, but these are faults that can be remedied through exercise. I think we've done well enough for the first game of the season — considering, too, that it was a cold day and a little too windy."

Navy's originally scheduled opener, against West Chester (Pa.) Teachers college was rained out last Saturday. This Saturday afternoon, the Tars will seek a second win against Ursinus college.

Beau Jack Likes To Shine Shoes Of Star Golfers

By GAYLE TALBOT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4 (AP)—No matter how long he fights or how many championships he wins or how much money he makes, Beau Jack intends to come back here every year at this time and pleasure himself for a week shining the shoes of the golfers and delivering them drinks and sandwiches.

"As long as I can get around on my feet, I'll be right here," the little brown fighting man said earnestly today. "This is where I love to be.' '

The Beau, who is booked to fight Johnny Greco in a bout that will jam Madison Square Garden in May, loves his work on the second floor of the old colonial style homestead that serves as clubhouse at the Augusta National Course.

It is exactly what he was doing in between fighting battle royals when several of the golfers adopted him back in 1941 and started him on his way to ring riches. He is filled with a great gratitude and there is nothing smacking of a stunt in his being here now.

There has been no promotion for him, either. Bowman Milligan, the head steward who also acts as Beau's guardian and manager, sees to it that he attends to his duties and steps around briskly when a member beckons.

The only concession Milligan has made is to permit his wealthiest waiter to stand around and talk a little fight when he isn't actually busy.

"I was shining Mr. Gene Tunney's shoes last week and he told me something about my left jab," Beau said proudly. "He told me to keep it shorter, not to reach out so far with it."

The members get a big kick out of letting the Beau set down a round of drinks and saying, "Beau, I'm a little short today. Will you take care of this for me?"

So far Jack has always broken out in a wide grin and said, "Yessir, I'd be happy to take care of it."

If the joke is growing thin with him, he doesn't let on. He figures he'll make better than $75 this week on salary and tips.

Buckeye Swimmers Are Favored To Take Title

BAINBRIDGE, Md., April 4 (AP) — Ohio State's strong swimming squad, with the Big Ten and NCAA titles already stowed away, faces a major hurdle starting tomorrow in its quest of a triple slam as contenders square away in the National AAU Senior Indoor Championships.

With the great Bainbridge Naval Training Center squad which captured 1945 honors broken up, the Great Lakes Bluejackets loom as the chief obstacle to the classy Buckeye aquatic aggregation.

In taking six out of eleven events in the NCAA last week, Coach Mike Peppe's Ohio State stars headed by the double winners Jack Hill and Miller Anderson will face a big job against the national amateur tankmen.

But Ohio State has an edge in team power, despite such individual starts as Wally Ris of Great Lakes, Jerry Kerschner of Bainbridge and Bob Cowell of Navy.

Memory of Son Killed Playing Baseball Causes Torres To Leave Nats

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The memory of an 8-year-old son killed playing baseball has caused Gil Torres, Cuban infielder, to leave the Washington Senators, perhaps permanently.

Torres's son died last fall of injuries sustained in a corner-lot game. Torres had hoped that the boy would follow his footsteps and those of his father, who also played with the Senators.

Torres told friends that he had been saddened by the sight of youngsters playing ball in this country, where his son once had had so much fun. He couldn't concentrate on the game himself.

Torres returned to Cuba from the Senators' training camp in Orlando, Fla., to be with his expectant wife. He indicated that he might play later in the Mexican League.

Kurowski To See Breadon

READING, Pa., April 4 (AP)—George (Whitey) Kurowski, one of the foremost Major League holdouts, left today for St. Louis to confer with General Manager Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The hard-hitting third baseman, who said he is not considering jumping to the Mexican League, is going at the Redbirds' expense.

He and Breadon will talk salary.

Prince Regent Is Favored To Win Grand National

By BILL MACKLIN

LIVERPOOL, England, April 4 (AP) — Rain arrived with the late crowd tonight but Prince Regent—an all-weather horse — remained the outstanding choice to win the one hundred third running of the Grand National Steeplechase tomorrow and upset a jinx that has followed the favorites since 1934.

The 11-year-old Irish jumper has triumphed more than once on a heavy course and after a fortnight of the finest English weather in a century, Aintree's track was still fast after intermittent showers. It would take an inch of rain to soften it materially.

Meantime, odds on Prince Regent in the latest call over in London dropped to an unprecedented low of 9 to 4, making him the cheapest horse since Golden Miller won as a 2 to 1 favorite in 1934.

Prince Regent is well rested since his triumph in the Gold Cup race three weeks ago and today his trainer pronounced him in perfect condition for the gruelling four and a half mile, thirty-jump marathon that gets under way at 10:15 a. m. (EST).

The jinx hanging over Prince Regent doesn't worry owner James V. Rank, millionaire sportsman, who hopes to satisfy a thirty-year-old ambition by winning the National. Reminded that a favorite had not triumphed in a dozen years, Rank replied, "Then it is time one did."

The expected starting field was cut to thirty-four today when Home Lover, a 50 to 1 entry, went lame; Rank pulled his Keep Faith, and Dorothy Paget indicated she would not run Roman Hackle and Housewarmer.

If the Prince comes through, the bookies stand to lose $20,000,000 in the opinion of London race writers, since he is coupled in thousands of doubles at long odds with Langton Abbot, winner of yesterday's Lincolnshire Handicap.

Behind the Prince in public favor are Limestone Edward at 100 to 9, Miss Paget's Dunshaughlin at 100 to 6, and Red Rower, Kami and Knight's Crest at 20 to 1.

Shipley Selects Lineup For Opening Games

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 4 (AP) —Burton Shipley, veteran University of Maryland baseball coach, announced today the Terrapins' batting order and line-up for the season's opener here at 4 p. m. Friday against Coach Jerry O'Brien's Kings Point Merchant Marines.

The two teams will play again at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday.

Don Gleasner, Terp three-letter man who is being watched by several big league clubs, is slated to bat in clean-up position. The pitching assignments for the two weekend games against the Mariners will go to the Maryland hurlers who look best in pre-game warmups.

Commission Does Not Give Meade License

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Stewards of the jockey club at their meeting today did not grant Don Meade a license to ride on New York race tracks, but instructed him to appear at their next meeting.

The former star jockey, winning rider in the 1933 Kentucky Derby, wh ohas been fined or suspended thirty-nine times in thirteen years, has not had a license since March 26, 1945, when he was suspended at the Hipodromo De Las Americas track in Mexico City because of arguments with officials. At that time the stewards recommended to the Mexican Racing Commission that he should not be licensed in the future.

"The license of Don Meade is withheld and he is instructed to appear before the stewards at their next meeting," said a statement after the jockey club meeting. Date of the next meeting was not disclosed.

Bishop Is Pleased With Middie Nine

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 4 (AP)—Coach Max Bishop said today he was well pleased with his Middies' 4-3 baseball victory over Fordham university yesterday which indicated that after ironing out some kinks the Navy nine "ought to be in good shape."

"There were spells of excellent ball playing," Bishop declared, "and then again we had our weak periods in which a number of boys got caught off base and so on."

He said pitcher Ron Burton had hurled a "nice game" for the season's test, and he also commended catcher Ken Woods for his share in the proceedings.

Navy's veteran first sacker, Bob Hill—who by the way is the Naval Academy's heavyweight boxing champion—started where he left off last season, hammering out a triple and two doubles and "playing a generally fine game," Bishop said.

It was Andy Frahler's "very pretty homerun" which clinched the contest and which climaxed one of Navy's power bursts in the seventh frame, Bishop declared. Frahler, a right hand fielder, is also slated for occasional mound chores.

On the other hand, the mentor added, "there was some uoose running and carelessness, but these are faults that can be remedied through exercise. I think we've done well enough for the first game of the season — considering, too, that it was a cold day and a little too windy."

Navy's originally scheduled opener, against West Chester (Pa.) Teachers college was rained out last Saturday. This Saturday afternoon, the Tars will seek a second win against Ursinus college.

Beau Jack Likes To Shine Shoes Of Star Golfers

By GAYLE TALBOT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4 (AP)—No matter how long he fights or how many championships he wins or how much money he makes, Beau Jack intends to come back here every year at this time and pleasure himself for a week shining the shoes of the golfers and delivering them drinks and sandwiches.

"As long as I can get around on my feet, I'll be right here," the little brown fighting man said earnestly today. "This is where I love to be."

The Beau, who is booked to fight Johnny Greco in a bout that will jam Madison Square Garden in May, loves his work on the second floor of the old colonial style homestead that serves as clubhouse at the Augusta National Course.

It is exactly what he was doing in between fighting battle royals when several of the golfers adopted him back in 1941 and started him on his way to ring riches. He is filled with a great gratitude and there is nothing smacking of a stunt in his being here now.

There has been no promotion for him, either. Bowman Milligan, the head steward who also acts as Beau's guardian and manager, sees to it that he attends to his duties and steps around briskly when a member beckons.

The only concession Milligan has made is to permit his wealthiest waiter to stand around and talk a little fight when he isn't actually busy.

"I was shining Mr. Gene Tunney's shoes last week and he told me something about my left jab," Beau said proudly. "He told me to keep it shorter, not to reach out so far with it."

The members get a big kick out of letting the Beau set down a round of drinks and saying, "Beau, I'm a little short today. Will you take care of this for me?"

So far Jack has always broken out in a wide grin and said, "Yes-sir, I'd be happy to take care of it."

If the joke is growing thin with him, he doesn't let on. He figures he'll make better than $75 this week on salary and tips.

Buckeye Swimmers Are Favored To Take Title

BAINBRIDGE, Md., April 4 (AP) — Ohio State's strong swimming squad, with the Big Ten and NCAA titles already stowed away, faces a major hurdle starting tomorrow in its quest of a triple slam as contenders square away in the National AAU Senior Indoor Championships.

With the great Bainbridge Naval Training Center squad which captured 1945 honors broken up, the Great Lakes Bluejackets loom as the chief obstacle to the classy Buckeye aquatic aggregation.

In taking six out of eleven events in the NCAA last week, Coach Mike Peppe's Ohio State stars headed by the double winners Jack Hill and Miller Anderson will face a big job against the national amateur tankmen.

But Ohio State has an edge in team power, despite such individual starts as Wally Ris of Great Lakes, Jerry Kerschner of Bainbridge and Bob Cowell of Navy.

Memory of Son Killed Playing Baseball Causes Torres To Leave Nats

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The memory of an 8-year-old son killed playing baseball has caused Gil Torres, Cuban infielder, to leave the Washington Senators, perhaps permanently.

Torres's son died last fall of injuries sustained in a corner-lot game. Torres had hoped that the boy would follow his footsteps and those of his father, who also played with the Senators.

Torres told friends that he had been saddened by the sight of youngsters playing ball in this country, where his son once had had so much fun. He couldn't concentrate on the game himself.

Torres returned to Cuba from the Senators' training camp in Orlando, Fla., to be with his expectant wife. He indicated that he might play later in the Mexican League.

Kurowski To See Breadon

READING, Pa., April 4 (AP)—George (Whitey) Kurowski, one of the foremost Major League holdouts, left today for St. Louis to confer with General Manager Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The hard-hitting third baseman, who said he is not considering jumping to the Mexican League, is going at the Redbirds' expense.

He and Breadon will talk salary.

Child Guidance Is To Be Aired At 10 Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 4—One of those rare things in netcasting, broadcast of a regular program from an airplane, is on the cards for NBC's Supper Club at 7. The entire cast of the show will be up in a plane over New York city to transmit from there. The plane is one of those late type passenger transports.

The first of three programs as a forum on child guidance will come to MBS at 10. The subject will be "Influence of Radio on Children" with a group of experts comprising the panel.

Because Bill Corum is on a microphone vacation, Steve Ellis will take his place beside Don Dunphy for the ABC fight broadcast at 10. The principals are Sonny Horne and Coley Welch, middleweights.

Sen. LaFollette of Wisconsin is to answer questions about issues of the day when he is the guest interviewee in Meet the Press of MBS at 10:30.

The first of several broadcasts of the Masters Golf tournament at Augusta, Ga., is to come from Bill Stern over NBC at 6:30. This will be in addition to his regular 10:30 program.

A couple of the CBS guests will be Boris Karloff with Ginny Simms at 7:30 and Gene Kelly with Kate Smith at 8:30.

Great Novels of NBC has Part I of the two-installment broadcast of Joseph Conrad's "Youth." Air time is 11:30.

The Art Godfrey morning network show for 9:15 a. m., 45 minutes, will go off the air with the Good Friday broadcast of April 19.

Child Guidance Is To Be Aired At 10 Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 4—One of those rare things in netcasting, broadcast of a regular program from an airplane, is on the cards for NBC's Supper Club at 7. The entire cast of the show will be up in a plane over New York city to transmit from there. The plane is one of those late type passenger transports.

The first of three programs as a forum on child guidance will come to MBS at 10. The subject will be "Influence of Radio on Children" with a group of experts comprising the panel.

Because Bill Corum is on a microphone vacation, Steve Ellis will take his place beside Don Dunphy for the ABC fight broadcast at 10. The principals are Sonny Horne and Coley Welch, middleweights.

Sen. LaFollette of Wisconsin is to answer questions about issues of the day when he is the guest interviewee in Meet the Press of MBS at 10:30.

The first of several broadcasts of the Masters Golf tournament at Augusta, Ga., is to come from Bill Stern over NBC at 6:30. This will be in addition to his regular 10:30 program.

A couple of the CBS guests will be Boris Karloff with Ginny Simms at 7:30 and Gene Kelly with Kate Smith at 8:30.

Great Novels of NBC has Part I of the two-installment broadcast of Joseph Conrad's "Youth." Air time is 11:30.

The Art Godfrey morning network show for 9:15 a. m., 45 minutes, will go off the air with the Good Friday broadcast of April 19.

Do You Feel NERVOUS AS A 'WITCH'
On "CERTAIN DAYS" of the month?
Do female functional monthly disturbances make you feel restless, nervous, perhaps cranky and a bit blue—at such times?
Then try famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound does MORE than relieve such monthly cramps, headache, backache. It also relieves accompanying weak, tired, nervous feelings—of this nature.
Taken throughout the month—this great medicine helps build up resistance against such distress. Also a fine stomachic tonic!

In Memoriam

A birthday tribute in loving memory of my dear Mother, Sara Etta Gross, who passed away June 4, 1945.

This is your Birthday, Mother dear,
Not as it used to be,
The gladness of the day is gone,
You are not here to see
For you are in your lonely grave,
And my tears are all in vain.
But oh, how happy I would be
If I had you back again.

Daughter,
CORA.

In Memoriam

A birthday tribute in loving memory of my dear Mother, Sara Etta Gross, who passed away June 4, 1945.

This is your Birthday, Mother dear,
Not as it used to be,
The gladness of the day is gone,
You are not here to see
For you are in your lonely grave,
And my tears are all in vain.
But oh, how happy I would be
If I had you back again.

Daughter,
CORA.

Nutrition Program For County Schools Is Discussed Here

Kopp Hopes To Include Gardening Program for All Schools

With famine stalking part of the world and the eating habits of millions of Americans far from sound as statistics released by General Hershey show, Superintendent Charles L. Kopp yesterday told principals of elementary schools in the county that the need for a county-wide nutrition program is apparent.

In summing up yesterday's meeting at the board of educations called for the purpose of launching the program, Kopp said that it is his hope that the plan will accomplish a twofold purpose. The superintendent said that he was hopeful that the program will:

2—Include gardening programs in all schools with the pupils raising vegetables and other garden produce.

Program Is Outlined

The two principal speakers at yesterday's initial meeting were Miss Flora G. Dowler, home economist, Manufacturers Light and Heat Comuany, Pittsburgh, who has had an active hand in Allegany county's celebrated school cafeteria program since its inception, and Mrs. Gertrude M. Bowie, assistant supervisor of home economics, state board of education, Baltimore.

Miss Dowler told the principals that "you are what you eat" and said "since your human machine has no trade in value, its up to you to service it, not for three years, but three score and ten years."

Miss Dowler's discussion on "The Basic Facts of Nutrition" underscored the importance of eating the proper variety of basic foods in proper amounts and included a resume of these foods including carbo-hydrates and fats, protein rich foods, vitamins, minerals and water.

Mrs. Bowie told the group "you are one of the first groups in Maryland to attack this problem in a direct way" and commented that Allegany county is already celebrated for its school lunch program.

"The stage has been set in Allegany county for such a program," Mrs. Bowie said. "The development of the school lunch program here has been almost spectacular and as a result you are far ahead of most. Consequently, you will be building on what you already have."

Any nutrition program should begin early in school and should be schoolwide and countywide, Mrs. Bowie said. The program should be designed to reach the parents with the fathers and mothers given opportunities to visit the schools and see what is being done.

Mrs. Bowie also stated that teachers should know what their pupils eat at home and build their programs on that information. And she predicted that the eating habits of pupils would be different in each school if past experiences along these lines are any criterion.

Proper Diet Stressed

In citing the need for such a program, Mrs. Bowie commented on the fact that Gen. Hershey had found that thirty per cent of men in the 18 to 27-year-old group had been rejected by the army because they were "physical runts" and said that at the start of the war only eleven per cent of all school children had good eating habits and twenty-nine per cent had poor eating habits.

Proper diet not only affects physical appearance but also affects behavior, the speaker said and urged teachers to study the changes in their pupils as the results of their program start to become apparent.

Following the principal talks, Miss Ruby Adams, director of elementary education, and Myra Custer Taylor, Agnes Lauder, Alice T. Harris, Virginia Morgan Fatkin, Wiliam P. Cooper and Earl F. Brain, members of the institute committee, conducted an open discussion of the various problems in connection with the nutrition program.

Dr. H. G. Ashburn To Discuss Color

Dr. Howard G. Ashburn, Celanese chemist, will present an illustrated talk on "Color Specification by Spectrophotometric Measurements" in Emmanuel Parish house at 8 o'clock tonight. The lecture will be the sixth in a series featuring local speakers which is sponsored by the Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Ashburn, who came to the Physical Research department of the Celanese plant in January 1943, was formerly head of the Chemistry department at Tennessee Polytechnic institute. After graduating from West Virginia university, Dr. Ashburn continued with graduate study there and later at Michigan and Cornell.

After getting his doctor's degree, Dr. Ashburn did research work at the West Virginia experiment station. In addition to being a member of the American Chemical Society, he is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Tennessee Association of Science, the Inter-Society Color Council and Sigma Xi fraternity.

Frostburg Junior C of C May Back Vets' Reception

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, April 4—The newly organized Frostburg Junior Chamber of Commerce held its first meeting tonight in the City Health center, and after disposing of routine business discussed a proposal that the organization either sponsor or lend its support to a public reception sometime during the coming summer in honor of men and women in Frostburg and vicinity who served in World War II.

It was recalled that such a reception was held by citizens of Frostburg in September 1919 in honor of returned veterans of World War I, and the suggestion that a similar reception be held in honor of veterans of World War II met with the approval of the Jaycees who decided to discuss the matter further at a special meeting of the board of directors to be called by the president, Roy Layman.

The Jaycees also decided to cooperate with the Frostburg Recreation Association and other groups in plans for the improvement of the Frostburg swimming pool and park.

The New Garbage Can ---By James B. Craig

O'Conor Proposes Answer to County Unemployment

ANNAPOLIS, April 5 (AP) — Gov. O'Conor suggested today a three-point program as a posible answer to Allegany county's "current problem of unemployment."

He reported that a University of Maryland survey, ordered by the state in the county several months ago, showed the relatively high relief load of $556,439 for 1945, a per capita cost of $6.40 compared with $4.14 per cpaita for the state.

He recommended:

1. Every effort should be made to persuade the federal government to complete the Savage river dam designed to stabilize water flow in the Potomac. He said this would aid industry and eliminate "summer stench" when the river is low. Several million dollars have been invested in the project, he said, and it "is badly needed and its completion would provide many thousands of man-hours of employment."

Believes in Flood Control

2. Flood control should be promoted since "the hazard of a major flood in Cumberlad is always existent." He cited present federal plans for a project to which Cumberland would contribute approximately $1,000,000, as well as the need for congressional approval and greater financial authority for the city.

3. Every effort should be made to revive the coal industry in Allegany county. He said he expected the United States Bureau of Mines survey of the county coal industry to be completed in about six months. This should be studied, he asserted, with a view to rehabilitating the industry, "which has played such an important part in the economy of the county."

The county coal production in 1944 was approximately 1,000,000 tons compared to 41,250,000 tons in 1910. Approximately 1,000 miners are now employed about 272 days a year, compared to 4,923 workers in 1910.

Celanese, Kelly Offset Decline

He noted, however, that the introduction of the Celanese corporation and the Kelly-Springfield Rubber and Tire Company had more than offset the decline in mining.

The county, the survey indicated, had no important reconversion problem, he continued. During the war, Kelly-Springfield converted to ammunition, pushing employment from about 1,000 to 5,000. This later dropped to 1,500 in reconversion, but the plant now employs 2,500.

At the Celanese plant employment of 10,500 workers has fluctuated "only slightly," the governor said. "The tremendous growth indicated by the trend of sales, from $31,000,000 in 1936 to $104,000,000 in 1945, is indicative of the importance this plant plays in the Celanese industry and of its prospects for the future."

Cadet Crusaders End Visit Today

The Salvation Army Cadet Crusaders from the army's training college at Atlanta, Ga., completed its first day of services here last night and will conclude its visit to Cumberland today after a full program of activities.

The group of seven cadets and three officers, accompanied by Maj. Vernon Walker, Clarksburg, W. Va., will begin its schedule today with an appearance at Fort Hill high school at 11:30 a. m. and at 2 p. m. will put on a program at the county infirmary at 2 p. m.

An open air service will be held in South Cumberland at 3:30 p. m. today and half an hour later the crusaders will participate in a young peoples meeting at the outpost on Virginia avenue. A second open air meeting will be held in South Cumberland at 7:30 p. m. followed by services at the outpost at 8 p. m.

After its arrival here yesterday morning, the group made its debut with an open air service at 3 p. m. and followed it with a radio broadcast at 5:45 p. m. A fellowship supper was held at the Citadel at 6 p. m., another open air meeting at 7:30 p. m. and services at the Citadel at 8 p. m.

Lt. Leah E. Lloyd Receives Commendation

The Commanding General, Seventh Service Command, Omaha, Neb., has awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon to First Lt. Leah E. Lloyd, WAC. This award was given for meritorious service as personnel and certifying officer; classification wage analyst; coordinator of training; job methods trainer; war bond officer and director of administration, finance officer, United States Army, St. Louis, during the period May 3, 1944 to March 7, 1946. Her ability to promote high morale among employees and establish an enviable record in administration and payment of civilian personnel has won for her the respect, admiration and confidence of all concerned.

Lt. Lloyd was a resident of Cumberland, before entering the army and was on the staff of the Celanese corporation of this city.

Discharged Vet, Clad in Uniform, Commits Suicide

A 21-year-old discharged veteran of action in the European theater of operation put on his army uniform last night and killed himself with a sixteen gauge automatic shotgun at his home in Luke, Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy county medical examiner reported.

Dr. Corson identified the veteran as James William Hill, 218 Cromwell street, Luke, son of William and Margaret Hill. The medical examiner said the ex-soldier's brain and skull were shattered by the shot and that death occurred instantly.

Authorities said no suicide note was found at the scene, Hill's bedroom, and that there was no indication he was despondent. They said, however, that his father told them Hill seemed to be nervous since his discharge from the army in January after serving since June 1943.

Chatted with Mother

Hill came home about 9:30 p. m., chatted with his mother, who was alone in the house, and then hurried to his room, Dr. Corson said.

At 10:45 p. m., his mother, who was writing a letter in the living room, heard a shot and hurried to the second floor to investigate. She found her son's body sprawled across the bed, the medical examiner said.

As officers reconstructed the suicide, Hill went to his bedroom and donned his uniform with the exception of one shoe and sock.

Standing at the side of his bed, Hill stooped over the muzzle of the weapon, held against his forehead about at the hairline, and pressed the trigger with the toe of his unshod foot, authorities said. He fell backwards on to the bed after the shot, they added.

Two Shells in Gun

Dr. Corson said two shells were found in the gun, one discharged and one unfired. A box of shells was found on a chair in the room.

Sgt. Thomas Hignutt and Trooper A. M. Spioch, of the state police, Chief of Police Burza Hanlin, Westernport, Assistant Chief Earl Hawk, Westernport, and Chief of Police Joseph Wilks, Luke, assisted Dr. Corson in the investigation.

Hill's body was taken to the Boal funeral home.

Three Persons Treated In Local Hospitals

Robert Reiber, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reiber, 850 Sperry terrace, was taken to Allegany hospital yesterday morning for treatment of a left hip injury suffered in a fall.

Ralph A. Knieriem, 24, LaVale, was treated early yesterday morning in the same hospital for a lacerated left index finger. Attaches said he caught the finger in the mechanism of a juke box.

Dr. H. J. Philipp To Present Paper At Convention

Dr. Howard J. Philipp, member of the Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society and research chemist in the Physical Research department at the Celanese plant, will present a paper on "Crystallinity of Cellulose Acetate" at the national spring meeting of the society to be held in Atlantic City April 6 to 10.

Dr. Philipp is one of ten members of the Western Maryland section who will attend the meeting. Others are L. J. Murphy and T. E. McGoury who, as national councilors, are the official representatives of this section, and R. R. Sitzler, G. W. Seymour, R. W. Work, J. G. Patrick, D. A. Powers, D. A. Young and S. B. McFarlane.

Murphy and McGoury will leave today. The others will leave on Sunday.

Born July 23, 1912, in Vienna, Austria, Dr. Philipp received his doctor of philosophy degree in 1934 from the University of Vienna where he was assistant to Prof. H. F. Mark from 1935 to 1938.

From 1938 to 1939, Dr. Philipp attended the University of Zurich, Switzerland, and migrated to the United States in 1939 to accept the position of chief chemist with J. T. Gibbons, Incorporated, New Orleans, La.

In 1943, he transferred to Southern Regional Research Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture in New Orleans and remained there until 1945.

Dr. Philipp became a group leader in the Physical Research department at the Celanese plant in April 1945. His work has been primarily in the field of high polymeric cellulose, rubber and tire cord. He has contributed to literature on high polymeric materials including a chapter in the book, "Strukturbericht."

3-Point Program Listed as Aims Of Retail Clerks

The immediate objectives of Local 654, Retail Clerks International Protective Association, are 6 p. m. closing for Saturdays, higher standards of wages and a forty-hour work week for sales employes of Cumberland, William R. McGinnis, Pittsburgh, Pa., RCIPA representative, announced last evening.

The main objectives were discussed last evening at an "overflow meeting" of the local in the Fort Cumberland hotel. The Retail Clerks local, organized here in 1937, now has contracts with Rosenbaum's, Cumberland Cloak and Suit, Moskins, Murphy's and Lerner's stores in this city.

McGinnis said the local has obtained 100 per cent representation in several more local stores within the past two weeks and will enter into contract negotiations with the firms in the near future.

Union officials declare members are determined in regard to early closing on Saturday, pointing out that since the forty-hour week is in operation in most industrial plants of this area, virtually all workers have days off in which to shop.

One official of the union declared that the clerks are about the only group in this city which really need Saturday off for shopping and added that sales personnel must try to do their shopping during lunch hour.

McGinnis said the local will ask that the local's immediate objectives be incorporated when new contracts are negotiated here.

The Cumberland local may send a delegate to the Retail Clerks National Convention to be held in Chicago, April 28 to 31.

The Retail Clerks union also represents workers at the A. and P. super market here, McGinnis said.

Will Participate in Army Day Parade; Local Man Is with Outfit

Twenty-five officers and 530 men of the Seven Hundred and Twelfth MP Battalion commander by Col. William E. McGuire, en route from Fort Belvoir, Va., to Wheeling, W. Va., for the Army day parade Saturday, bivouacked last night at the state armory and revealed that their outfit has just been handed a choice assignment, namely that of security battalion for the War college in Washington.

While the college was under close guard throughout the war, it was revealed last night that only twenty-four men are now guarding the institution. However, according to orders just issued the battalion will move into Washington and take over its new duties immediately following their return from their present mission in Wheeling.

The convoy consisting of thirty trucks, three scout cars, seven jeeps and the colonel's sedan moved into Cumberland yesterday afternoon and after posting armed guards on the armory had chow with the three mobile kitchens of Companies A, B and C serving up chicken and oyster stew. The officers had dinner later at the Algonquin hotel.

Wear Shoulder Patch

The Seven Hundred and Twelfth Bn. (shoulder patch showing the Washington monument and a bare sword in a diagonal position) is now composed entirely of veterans who have reenlisted and every single theater of operations in the recent war is represented. The personnel includes former infantrymen, paratroopers and Rangers.

As one officer put it, "we are now rid of all the drafted men—I'm not saying that in a derogatory manner, but it's merely that we are glad to see them where they want to be if they want to be there."

The present personnel is in the outfit because the regulars prefer the service to civilian pursuits and as one enlisted man put it "soldiering is as good a profession as any."

When asked if the returned veterans from such theaters as Burma and the Southwest Pacific take kindly to the spit and polish of an MP outfit assigned near Washington, one officer replied "spit and polish is just another word for keeping clean. These men do it because they expect it and expect to soldier. If they didn't, they wouldn't be here."

When Lt. Paul G. Lincavage, Plymouth, Pa., inquired "what outfit had this armory prior to the war" and was told Company G, One-Hundred and Fifteen Infantry, Twenty-ninth Division, the lieutenant replied, "Say, I know that One Hundred and Fifteenth Infantry. I bumped into them at Brest. Good outfit."

Other officers then revealed that the present adjutant of the batallion, Lt. Paul G. Leahy, is a former officer of the One Hundred and Seventy-fifth Infantry, and that Lt. R. J. Flick, is a Cumberland man whose wife and child reside here.

"Just name your outfit and we'll produce somebody who was with 'em," one officer observed laconically with a wave of his hand.

Officer Praises UNO

Asked how he viewed present goings on in relation to the postwar world, one officer said, "I think things look good. They needed a place where they could all get together and cuss and raise hell and now they have UNO. It's just what the doctor ordered — a place where they can thresh out their differences."

The veterans will move out this morning, parade on Saturday, and return here Sunday night.

Holmes Makes Study Of Library Pronosal In Other Counties

While he did not reveal what action he contemplated taking on the proposed library project for Allegany county, Commissioner James Holmes said last night that a study he had made of the reaction to the plan in other counties has revealed considerable dissatisfaction.

Holmes, who returned from Washington county Thursday, said that William Shank, board chairman of the Washington county commissioners and a former school teacher, informed him that his board has turned down the proposal as illadvised at the present time. Officials of seven other counties contacted by Holmes also expressed dissatisfaction with the proposition, Holmes said.

Both Holmes and Simeon W. Green, board president, attended last night's meeting called by the Co-ordinating Council of Allegany County to boost the county library. Neither committed himself, County Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson, who also attended, has gone on record as favoring the proposition.

Guests from Chosen Friends Lodge No. 36 here, as well as lodges in Paw Paw and Keyser, W. Va., and Westernport and Barton, have been invited to attend.

The only living charter member of Chapel Hill lodge, J. W. Smith, 605 Lincoln street, who was to have been the guest of honor, will be unable to attend. Mr. Smith's address will be read by George H. McCracken.

Flying Fortress To Be Flown Here For Exhibition

Arrangements are being made to bring a B-17 Flying Fortress here from an army supply base at Walnut Ridge, Ark., next Tuesday, according to John A. Chapman, airport manager.

Chapman said yesterday that the plane, which is being secured by the city for exhibition purposes at the Cumberland Municipal airport, will be flown here from Arkansas by Harry Flook, an instructor at the local port. Chapman will be the co-pilot and Virgil Parker, also an instructor, will be mechanic on the flight.

The airport manager said that the trio plans to leave here Sunday night to fly to Arkansas to pick up the plane, according to present plans. He estimated that the return trip will take five to six hours, since the cruising speed of the B-17 is about 180 miles per hour.

Chapman also announced yesterday that William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, who leased the airport from the city, flew here from Pittsburgh Sunday on an inspection trip, and brought foundation plans for a metal maintenance hangar, to be constructed on the cement apron in front of the administration building.

He stated that work on installing the foundation is scheduled to begin next week, and that the hangar itself, which Graham originally purchased in Pittsburgh, to use at another field in Butler, Pa., will be erected by a company crew due to arrive here April 15.

Chapman explained that Graham has allocated the hangar for use here as a repair shop because of the greater need at the local port. The building will measure 30 by 72 feet.

The airport manager said he has secured material for fifteen prefabricated individual hangars to be constructed at the port, at a total cost of $15,000. Each will house one plane. The hangars will be placed in a row behind the administration building, facing the taxi strip. Work will be done by David T. Ogilvie, local contractor.

Chapman added that he hopes to have ten more hangars constructed within ninety days, making a total of twenty-five for housing planes at the field.

City's Action May Determine Library Project's Fate

County Attorney Says Commissioners Should Await Decision

Horace P. Whitworth, attorney to the board of county commissioners, will inform the board this morning that it is vitally necessary that they determine the position of the mayor and city council of Cumberland regarding a proposed county library project before acting on the proposition.

Whitworth, who had been asked by the board to prepare a report on the act of the legislature creating a Division of Library Extension, submitted the report last night at a meeting at city hall called by the Co-ordinating Council of Allegany County to urge the approval of the library proposition.

In reading his report for the commissioners, Whitworth said, "Since the assessment with the City of Cumberland amounts to $49,500,000, which is a little over fifty per cent of the total, Cumberland would in a certain sense be maintaining two library set-ups should they desire to continue their present appropriation for the existing library, which I am given to understand is $12,000 annually. This is that double taxation which has been spoken about lately.

May Not Go Along

"On the other hand, the mayor and city council of Cumberland may not consider it advisable to go along with you in this county project as set up in the library bill", Whitworth said. "They may prefer their present arrangement and this would be understandable."

Should Cumberland exercise the option given to it and claim an exemption from the act and from the levy of two cents for library support, the county will face an entirely new setup, namely to raise $19,000 without including the assessment of the City of Cumberland.

In this case, Whitworth stated, "The library item in your budget would, so far as the county taxpayer is concerned, have an increased rate of four and three-fourths cents over the tax levied upon the property in the City of Cumberland. Any smaller tax than this amount would not make the state aid of $5,100 available or any part thereof."

Must Levy Two Cents

Assuming that Cumberland or any other municipality does not reject the proposal, an assessment of two cents on each $100 of county property must be made by the commissioners to comply with the act. Since the assessment subject to the two-cent tax is approximately ninety-five millions, the levy for the library board would amount to $19,000 which would qualify the county for $5,100 from the state, or a total of $21,100, Whitworth said.

In the event the City of Cumberland turns down the project, Whitworth cited that the county will be confronted with two distinct and different tax rates, one applying to property within the City of Cumberland and a different rate without.

"We have always had uniformity in the tax rate in this county and your books and records, are so set up," Whitworth said. "To change all this will now involve much confusion and additional expense."

Commissioners Hear Report

All three county commissioners attended last night's meeting and heard the report that is to be submitted to them officially today at their regular meeting at the court house. Of the three commissioners, C. N. Wilkinson has announced himself in favor of the library project that has received the stamp of approval of a number of P-TA groups and other women's organizations. Simeon W. Green, president of the board, and James Holmes have not yet officially committed themselves regarding the project but attended last night's meeting as a part of their study of the proposal before making a decision.

It is now apparent that the board will take no action pending a decision by the mayor and city council of Cumberland. The municipal authorities are scheduled to take up the matter at 10 o'clock today. A majority of the "kicks" against the proposed library have been received by the county commissioners from taxpayers living within the Cumberland city limits.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said at the meeting that a preliminary check of members of the city council indicated that they favored exemption of Cumberland from the proposed county library system.

It was decided to send a delegation from the co-ordinating council to the meeting of the mayor and council this morning, to explain the library project to the new commissioners.

Value Is Stressed

Miss Helen M. Clark, director of the division of library extension of the state department of education, discussed the value of such a project, pointing out that the library system is efficient in that it provides a central headquarters, located in the county seat, through which all ordering of books may be done.

Miss Clark also said that only one process of cataloguing would be necessary, since the same book would serve four or five communities. The county library would have a staff of trained librarians, with experts on books for children, high school students and adults.

She pointed out that returning veterans have become used to good library service in army and navy posts, and that a high standard of service could be maintained through the system.

A forum discussion, with Dr. H. J. McNally as moderator, closed the meeting. Dr. McNally is in charge of veterans' activities for the county board of education.

Several persons in the audience pointed out that library service is inadequate in most of the sections of the county. The general trend of the discussion was favor of the proposed project.

Roy W. Eves, vice chairman of the co-ordinating council, presided.

James Stemple, president of the Winter Bowling League of the V. F. W., has called a spcial meeting for 7:30 p. m. Friday at the V. F. W. Home, Union street.

Nutrition Program For County Schools Is Discussed Here

Kopp Hopes To Include Gardening Program for All Schools

With famine stalking part of the world and the eating habits of millions of Americans far from sound as statistics released by General Hershey show, Superintendent Charles L. Kopp yesterday told principals of elementary schools in the county that the need for a county-wide nutrition program is apparent.

In summing up yesterday's meeting at the board of educations called for the purpose of launching the program, Kopp said that it is his hope that the plan will accomplish a twofold purpose. The superintendent said that he was hopeful that the program will:

1—Teach children sound eating habits and how to conserve food.

2—Include gardening programs in all schools with the pupils raising vegetables and other garden produce.

Program Is Outlined

The two principal speakers at yesterday's initial meeting were Miss Flora G. Dowler, home economist, Manufacturers Light and Heat Comuany, Pittsburgh, who has had an active hand in Allegany county's celebrated school cafeteria program since its inception, and Mrs. Gertrude M. Bowie, assistant supervisor of home economics, state board of education, Baltimore.

Miss Dowler told the principals that "you are what you eat" and said "since your human machine has no trade in value, its up to you to service it, not for three years, but three score and ten years."

Miss Dowler's discussion on "The Basic Facts of Nutrition" underscored the importance of eating the proper variety of basic foods in proper amounts and included a resume of these foods including carbo-hydrates and fats, protein rich foods, vitamins, minerals and water.

Mrs. Bowie told the group "you are one of the first groups in Maryland to attack this problem in a direct way" and commented that Allegany county is already celebrated for its school lunch program.

"The stage has been set in Allegany county for such a program," Mrs. Bowie said. "The development of the school lunch program here has been almost spectacular and as a result you are far ahead of most. Consequently, you will be building on what you already have."

Any nutrition program should begin early in school and should be schoolwide and countywide, Mrs. Bowie said. The program should be designed to reach the parents with the fathers and mothers given opportunities to visit the schools and see what is being done.

Mrs. Bowie also stated that teachers should know what their pupils eat at home and build their programs on that information. And she predicted that the eating habits of pupils would be different in each school if past experiences along these lines are any criterion.

Proper Diet Stressed

In citing the need for such a program, Mrs. Bowie commented on the fact that Gen. Hershey had found that thirty per cent of men in the 18 to 27-year-old group had been rejected by the army because they were "physical runts" and said that at the start of the war only eleven per cent of all school children had good eating habits and twenty-nine per cent had poor eating habits.

Proper diet not only affects physical appearance but also affects behavior, the speaker said and urged teachers to study the changes in their pupils as the results of their program start to become apparent.

Following the principal talks, Miss Ruby Adams, director of elementary education, and Myra Custer Taylor, Agnes Lauder, Alice T. Harris, Virginia Morgan Fatkin, Wiliam P. Cooper and Earl F. Brain, members of the institute committee, conducted an open discussion of the various problems in connection with the nutrition program.

Dr. H. G. Ashburn To Discuss Color

Dr. Howard G. Ashburn, Celanese chemist, will present an illustrated talk on "Color Specification by Spectrophotometric Measurements" in Emmanuel Parish house at 8 o'clock tonight. The lecture will be the sixth in a series featuring local speakers which is sponsored by the Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Ashburn, who came to the Physical Research department of the Celanese plant in January 1943, was formerly head of the Chemistry department at Tennessee Polytechnic institute. After graduating from West Virginia university, Dr. Ashburn continued with graduate study there and later at Michigan and Cornell.

After getting his doctor's degree, Dr. Ashburn did research work at the West Virginia experiment station. In addition to being a member of the American Chemical Society, he is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Tennessee Association of Science, the Inter-Society Color Council and Sigma Xi fraternity.

It was recalled that such a reception was held by citizens of Frostburg in September 1919 in honor of returned veterans of World War I, and the suggestion that a similar reception be held in honor of veterans of World War II met with the approval of the Jaycees who decided to discuss the matter further at a special meeting of the board of directors to be called by the president, Roy Layman.

The New Garbage Can ---By James B. Craig

O'Conor Proposes Answer to County Unemployment

ANNAPOLIS, April 5 (AP) — Gov. O'Conor suggested today a three-point program as a posible answer to Allegany county's "current problem of unemployment."

He reported that a University of Maryland survey, ordered by the state in the county several months ago, showed the relatively high relief load of $556,439 for 1945, a per capita cost of $6.40 compared with $4.14 per cpaita for the state.

He recommended:

1. Every effort should be made to persuade the federal government to complete the Savage river dam designed to stabilize water flow in the Potomac. He said this would aid industry and eliminate "summer stench" when the river is low. Several million dollars have been invested in the project, he said, and it "is badly needed and its completion would provide many thousands of man-hours of employment."

Believes in Flood Control

2. Flood control should be promoted since "the hazard of a major flood in Cumberlad is always existent." He cited present federal plans for a project to which Cumberland would contribute approximately $1,000,000, as well as the need for congressional approval and greater financial authority for the city.

3. Every effort should be made to revive the coal industry in Allegany county. He said he expected the United States Bureau of Mines survey of the county coal industry to be completed in about six months. This should be studied, he asserted, with a view to rehabilitating the industry, "which has played such an important part in the economy of the county."

The county coal production in 1944 was approximately 1,000,000 tons compared to 41,250,000 tons in 1910. Approximately 1,000 miners are now employed about 272 days a year, compared to 4,923 workers in 1910.

Celanese, Kelly Offset Decline

He noted, however, that the introduction of the Celanese corporation and the Kelly-Springfield Rubber and Tire Company had more than offset the decline in mining.

The county, the survey indicated, had no important reconversion problem, he continued. During the war, Kelly-Springfield converted to ammunition, pushing employment from about 1,000 to 5,000. This later dropped to 1,500 in reconversion, but the plant now employs 2,500.

At the Celanese plant employment of 10,500 workers has fluctuated "only slightly," the governor said. "The tremendous growth indicated by the trend of sales, from $31,000,000 in 1936 to $104,000,000 in 1945, is indicative of the importance this plant plays in the Celanese industry and of its prospects for the future."

Cadet Crusaders End Visit Today

The Salvation Army Cadet Crusaders from the army's training college at Atlanta, Ga., completed its first day of services here last night and will conclude its visit to Cumberland today after a full program of activities.

An open air service will be held in South Cumberland at 3:30 p. m. today and half an hour later the crusaders will participate in a young peoples meeting at the outpost on Virginia avenue. A second open air meeting will be held in South Cumberland at 7:30 p. m. followed by services at the outpost at 8 p. m.

After its arrival here yesterday morning, the group made its debut with an open air service at 3 p. m. and followed it with a radio broadcast at 5:45 p. m. A fellowship supper was held at the Citadel at 6 p. m., another open air meeting at 7:30 p. m. and services at the Citadel at 8 p. m.

Discharged Vet, Clad in Uniform, Commits Suicide

A 21-year-old discharged veteran of action in the European theater of operation put on his army uniform last night and killed himself with a sixteen gauge automatic shotgun at his home in Luke, Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy county medical examiner reported.

Dr. Corson identified the veteran as James William Hill, 218 Cromwell street, Luke, son of William and Margaret Hill. The medical examiner said the ex-soldier's brain and skull were shattered by the shot and that death occurred instantly.

Authorities said no suicide note was found at the scene, Hill's bedroom, and that there was no indication he was despondent. They said, however, that his father told them Hill seemed to be nervous since his discharge from the army in January after serving since June 1943.

Chatted with Mother

Hill came home about 9:30 p. m., chatted with his mother, who was alone in the house, and then hurried to his room, Dr. Corson said.

At 10:45 p. m., his mother, who was writing a letter in the living room, heard a shot and hurried to the second floor to investigate. She found her son's body sprawled across the bed, the medical examiner said.

As officers reconstructed the suicide, Hill went to his bedroom and donned his uniform with the exception of one shoe and sock.

Standing at the side of his bed, Hill stooped over the muzzle of the weapon, held against his forehead about at the hairline, and pressed the trigger with the toe of his unshod foot, authorities said. He fell backwards on to the bed after the shot, they added.

Two Shells in Gun

Dr. Corson said two shells were found in the gun, one discharged and one unfired. A box of shells was found on a chair in the room.

Sgt. Thomas Hignutt and Trooper A. M. Spioch, of the state police, Chief of Police Burza Hanlin, Westernport, Assistant Chief Earl Hawk, Westernport, and Chief of Police Joseph Wilks, Luke, assisted Dr. Corson in the investigation.

Hill's body was taken to the Boal funeral home.

Dr. H. J. Philipp To Present Paper At Convention

Dr. Howard J. Philipp, member of the Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society and research chemist in the Physical Research department at the Celanese plant, will present a paper on "Crystallinity of Cellulose Acetate" at the national spring meeting of the society to be held in Atlantic City April 6 to 10.

Dr. Philipp is one of ten members of the Western Maryland section who will attend the meeting. Others are L. J. Murphy and T. E. McGoury who, as national councilors, are the official representatives of this section, and R. R. Sitzler, G. W. Seymour, R. W. Work, J. G. Patrick, D. A. Powers, D. A. Young and S. B. McFarlane.

Murphy and McGoury will leave today. The others will leave on Sunday.

Born July 23, 1912, in Vienna, Austria, Dr. Philipp received his doctor of philosophy degree in 1934 from the University of Vienna where he was assistant to Prof. H. F. Mark from 1935 to 1938.

From 1938 to 1939, Dr. Philipp attended the University of Zurich, Switzerland, and migrated to the United States in 1939 to accept the position of chief chemist with J. T. Gibbons, Incorporated, New Orleans, La.

In 1943, he transferred to Southern Regional Research Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture in New Orleans and remained there until 1945.

Dr. Philipp became a group leader in the Physical Research department at the Celanese plant in April 1945. His work has been primarily in the field of high polymeric cellulose, rubber and tire cord. He has contributed to literature on high polymeric materials including a chapter in the book, "Strukturbericht."

3-Point Program Listed as Aims Of Retail Clerks

The immediate objectives of Local 654, Retail Clerks International Protective Association, are 6 p. m. closing for Saturdays, higher standards of wages and a forty-hour work week for sales employes of Cumberland, William R. McGinnis, Pittsburgh, Pa., RCIPA representative, announced last evening.

The main objectives were discussed last evening at an "overflow meeting" of the local in the Fort Cumberland hotel. The Retail Clerks local, organized here in 1937, now has contracts with Rosenbaum's, Cumberland Cloak and Suit, Moskins, Murphy's and Lerner's stores in this city.

McGinnis said the local has obtained 100 per cent representation in several more local stores within the past two weeks and will enter into contract negotiations with the firms in the near future.

Union officials declare members are determined in regard to early closing on Saturday, pointing out that since the forty-hour week is in operation in most industrial plants of this area, virtually all workers have days off in which to shop.

One official of the union declared that the clerks are about the only group in this city which really need Saturday off for shopping and added that sales personnel must try to do their shopping during lunch hour.

McGinnis said the local will ask that the local's immediate objectives be incorporated when new contracts are negotiated here.

The Cumberland local may send a delegate to the Retail Clerks National Convention to be held in Chicago, April 28 to 31.

The Retail Clerks union also represents workers at the A. and P. super market here, McGinnis said.

Will Participate in Army Day Parade; Local Man Is with Outfit

Twenty-five officers and 530 men of the Seven Hundred and Twelfth MP Battalion commander by Col. William E. McGuire, en route from Fort Belvoir, Va., to Wheeling, W. Va., for the Army day parade Saturday, bivouacked last night at the state armory and revealed that their outfit has just been handed a choice assignment, namely that of security battalion for the War college in Washington.

While the college was under close guard throughout the war, it was revealed last night that only twenty-four men are now guarding the institution. However, according to orders just issued the battalion will move into Washington and take over its new duties immediately following their return from their present mission in Wheeling.

The convoy consisting of thirty trucks, three scout cars, seven jeeps and the colonel's sedan moved into Cumberland yesterday afternoon and after posting armed guards on the armory had chow with the three mobile kitchens of Companies A, B and C serving up chicken and oyster stew. The officers had dinner later at the Algonquin hotel.

Wear Shoulder Patch

The Seven Hundred and Twelfth Bn. (shoulder patch showing the Washington monument and a bare sword in a diagonal position) is now composed entirely of veterans who have reenlisted and every single theater of operations in the recent war is represented. The personnel includes former infantrymen, paratroopers and Rangers.

As one officer put it, "we are now rid of all the drafted men—I'm not saying that in a derogatory manner, but it's merely that we are glad to see them where they want to be if they want to be there."

The present personnel is in the outfit because the regulars prefer the service to civilian pursuits and as one enlisted man put it "soldiering is as good a profession as any."

When asked if the returned veterans from such theaters as Burma and the Southwest Pacific take kindly to the spit and polish of an MP outfit assigned near Washington, one officer replied "spit and polish is just another word for keeping clean. These men do it because they expect it and expect to soldier. If they didn't, they wouldn't be here."

When Lt. Paul G. Lincavage, Plymouth, Pa., inquired "what outfit had this armory prior to the war" and was told Company G, One-Hundred and Fifteen Infantry, Twenty-ninth Division, the lieutenant replied, "Say, I know that One Hundred and Fifteenth Infantry. I bumped into them at Brest. Good outfit."

Other officers then revealed that the present adjutant of the batallion, Lt. Paul G. Leahy, is a former officer of the One Hundred and Seventy-fifth Infantry, and that Lt. R. J. Flick, is a Cumberland man whose wife and child reside here.

"Just name your outfit and we'll produce somebody who was with 'em," one officer observed laconically with a wave of his hand.

Officer Praises UNO

Asked how he viewed present goings on in relation to the postwar world, one officer said, "I think things look good. They needed a place where they could all get together and cuss and raise hell and now they have UNO. It's just what the doctor ordered — a place where they can thresh out their differences."

The veterans will move out this morning, parade on Saturday, and return here Sunday night.

Holmes Makes Study Of Library Pronosal In Other Counties

While he did not reveal what action he contemplated taking on the proposed library project for Allegany county, Commissioner James Holmes said last night that a study he had made of the reaction to the plan in other counties has revealed considerable dissatisfaction.

Holmes, who returned from Washington county Thursday, said that William Shank, board chairman of the Washington county commissioners and a former school teacher, informed him that his board has turned down the proposal as illadvised at the present time. Officials of seven other counties contacted by Holmes also expressed dissatisfaction with the proposition, Holmes said.

Both Holmes and Simeon W. Green, board president, attended last night's meeting called by the Co-ordinating Council of Allegany County to boost the county library. Neither committed himself, County Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson, who also attended, has gone on record as favoring the proposition.

Flying Fortress To Be Flown Here For Exhibition

Arrangements are being made to bring a B-17 Flying Fortress here from an army supply base at Walnut Ridge, Ark., next Tuesday, according to John A. Chapman, airport manager.

Chapman said yesterday that the plane, which is being secured by the city for exhibition purposes at the Cumberland Municipal airport, will be flown here from Arkansas by Harry Flook, an instructor at the local port. Chapman will be the co-pilot and Virgil Parker, also an instructor, will be mechanic on the flight.

The airport manager said that the trio plans to leave here Sunday night to fly to Arkansas to pick up the plane, according to present plans. He estimated that the return trip will take five to six hours, since the cruising speed of the B-17 is about 180 miles per hour.

Chapman also announced yesterday that William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, who leased the airport from the city, flew here from Pittsburgh Sunday on an inspection trip, and brought foundation plans for a metal maintenance hangar, to be constructed on the cement apron in front of the administration building.

He stated that work on installing the foundation is scheduled to begin next week, and that the hangar itself, which Graham originally purchased in Pittsburgh, to use at another field in Butler, Pa., will be erected by a company crew due to arrive here April 15.

Chapman explained that Graham has allocated the hangar for use here as a repair shop because of the greater need at the local port. The building will measure 30 by 72 feet.

The airport manager said he has secured material for fifteen prefabricated individual hangars to be constructed at the port, at a total cost of $15,000. Each will house one plane. The hangars will be placed in a row behind the administration building, facing the taxi strip. Work will be done by David T. Ogilvie, local contractor.

Chapman added that he hopes to have ten more hangars constructed within ninety days, making a total of twenty-five for housing planes at the field.

City's Action May Determine Library Project's Fate

County Attorney Says Commissioners Should Await Decision

Horace P. Whitworth, attorney to the board of county commissioners, will inform the board this morning that it is vitally necessary that they determine the position of the mayor and city council of Cumberland regarding a proposed county library project before acting on the proposition.

Whitworth, who had been asked by the board to prepare a report on the act of the legislature creating a Division of Library Extension, submitted the report last night at a meeting at city hall called by the Co-ordinating Council of Allegany County to urge the approval of the library proposition.

In reading his report for the commissioners, Whitworth said, "Since the assessment with the City of Cumberland amounts to $49,500,000, which is a little over fifty per cent of the total, Cumberland would in a certain sense be maintaining two library set-ups should they desire to continue their present appropriation for the existing library, which I am given to understand is $12,000 annually. This is that double taxation which has been spoken about lately.

May Not Go Along

"On the other hand, the mayor and city council of Cumberland may not consider it advisable to go along with you in this county project as set up in the library bill", Whitworth said. "They may prefer their present arrangement and this would be understandable."

Should Cumberland exercise the option given to it and claim an exemption from the act and from the levy of two cents for library support, the county will face an entirely new setup, namely to raise $19,000 without including the assessment of the City of Cumberland.

In this case, Whitworth stated, "The library item in your budget would, so far as the county taxpayer is concerned, have an increased rate of four and three-fourths cents over the tax levied upon the property in the City of Cumberland. Any smaller tax than this amount would not make the state aid of $5,100 available or any part thereof."

Must Levy Two Cents

Assuming that Cumberland or any other municipality does not reject the proposal, an assessment of two cents on each $100 of county property must be made by the commissioners to comply with the act. Since the assessment subject to the two-cent tax is approximately ninety-five millions, the levy for the library board would amount to $19,000 which would qualify the county for $5,100 from the state, or a total of $21,100, Whitworth said.

In the event the City of Cumberland turns down the project, Whitworth cited that the county will be confronted with two distinct and different tax rates, one applying to property within the City of Cumberland and a different rate without.

"We have always had uniformity in the tax rate in this county and your budget-making facilities, all your books and records, are so set up," Whitworth said. "To change all this will now involve much confusion and additional expense."

Commissioners Hear Report

All three county commissioners attended last night's meeting and heard the report that is to be submitted to them officially today at their regular meeting at the court house. Of the three commissioners, C. N. Wilkinson has announced himself in favor of the library project that has received the stamp of approval of a number of P-TA groups and other women's organizations. Simeon W. Green, president of the board, and James Holmes have not yet officially committed themselves regarding the project but attended last night's meeting as a part of their study of the proposal before making a decision.

It is now apparent that the board will take no action pending a decision by the mayor and city council of Cumberland. The municipal authorities are scheduled to take up the matter at 10 o'clock today. A majority of the "kicks" against the proposed library have been received by the county commissioners from taxpayers living within the Cumberland city limits.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said at the meeting that a preliminary check of members of the city council indicated that they favored exemption of Cumberland from the proposed county library system.

It was decided to send a delegation from the co-ordinating council to the meeting of the mayor and council this morning, to explain the library project to the new commissioners.

Value Is Stressed

Miss Helen M. Clark, director of the division of library extension of the state department of education, discussed the value of such a project, pointing out that the library system is efficient in that it provides a central headquarters, located in the county seat, through which all ordering of books may be done.

Miss Clark also said that only one process of cataloguing would be necessary, since the same book would serve four or five communities. The county library would have a staff of trained librarians, with experts on books for children, high school students and adults.

She pointed out that returning veterans have become used to good library service in army and navy posts, and that a high standard of service could be maintained through the system.

A forum discussion, with Dr. H. J. McNally as moderator, closed the meeting. Dr. McNally is in charge of veterans' activities for the county board of education.

Several persons in the audience pointed out that library service is inadequate in most of the sections of the county. The general trend of the discussion was favor of the proposed project.

Roy W. Eves, vice chairman of the co-ordinating council, presided.

James Stemple, president of the Winter Bowling League of the V. F. W., has called a spcial meeting for 7:30 p. m. Friday at the V. F. W. Home, Union street.
